

RALPH McGILLThe World's Census Clock

WASHINGTON, D.C.: An old man talked. He could remember the guns of Gettysburg, he said, and the great thunder they made. He recalled his boyhood. His mind lived in the old years.

That was a time when America had fewer than 35,000,000 persons.

The Constitution of the United States was established in 1789. In 1790, the nation took its first census. There were not quite four million persons in the new republic. Most of them were spread thinly along the Atlantic coast.

One may go here to the Department of Commerce and see the census clock. It ticks away the births. One is awed to watch it and think of the new babies born every minute in hospitals, in slums and shacks, in love, in sorrow, in hope, in despair, in shame, in glory.

Revealing Figures

We have come very fast. The figures reveal it. The census, at various intervals, has been:

1790	3,929,214
1800	5,303,483
1820	9,638,453
1840	16,069,453
1860	31,443,321
1880	50,155,783
1900	75,994,575
1920	105,710,620
1940	131,669,275
1950	150,697,361

The census of 1960 is expected to show us to have 180 million.

We live today within sight of two world orders, one dying. One emerging. The old world of colonialism and imperialism is almost gone. There are today approximately two billion, eight hundred million persons (2,800,000,000) on earth. Of that number, perhaps one billion, 800 million are colored persons.

Fifteen years ago most of these still lived under colonial rule... Dutch, French, British, Portuguese. Today colonialism is everywhere moving toward the exits. It contributed certain assets to those who lived under it. But its liabilities were greater. And it was wrong. So it passes. The new nations moving from Africa into the United Nations, the disturbing tumult out of South Africa, and the rising pressure of discontented peoples in Latin America create a new problem.

Cuba's Landless

In Cuba, Castro holds the loyalty of the landless and the poor. The middle and the upper classes draw back before his fuzzy, ruthless actions and the undeniable influence of Marxists who have his ear and who know how to appeal to his emotions. The fact that Cuba's long oppressed poor are now receiving benefits they never dreamed to have should not be overlooked in evaluating Cuba and the concern it gives us and Latin American neighbors.

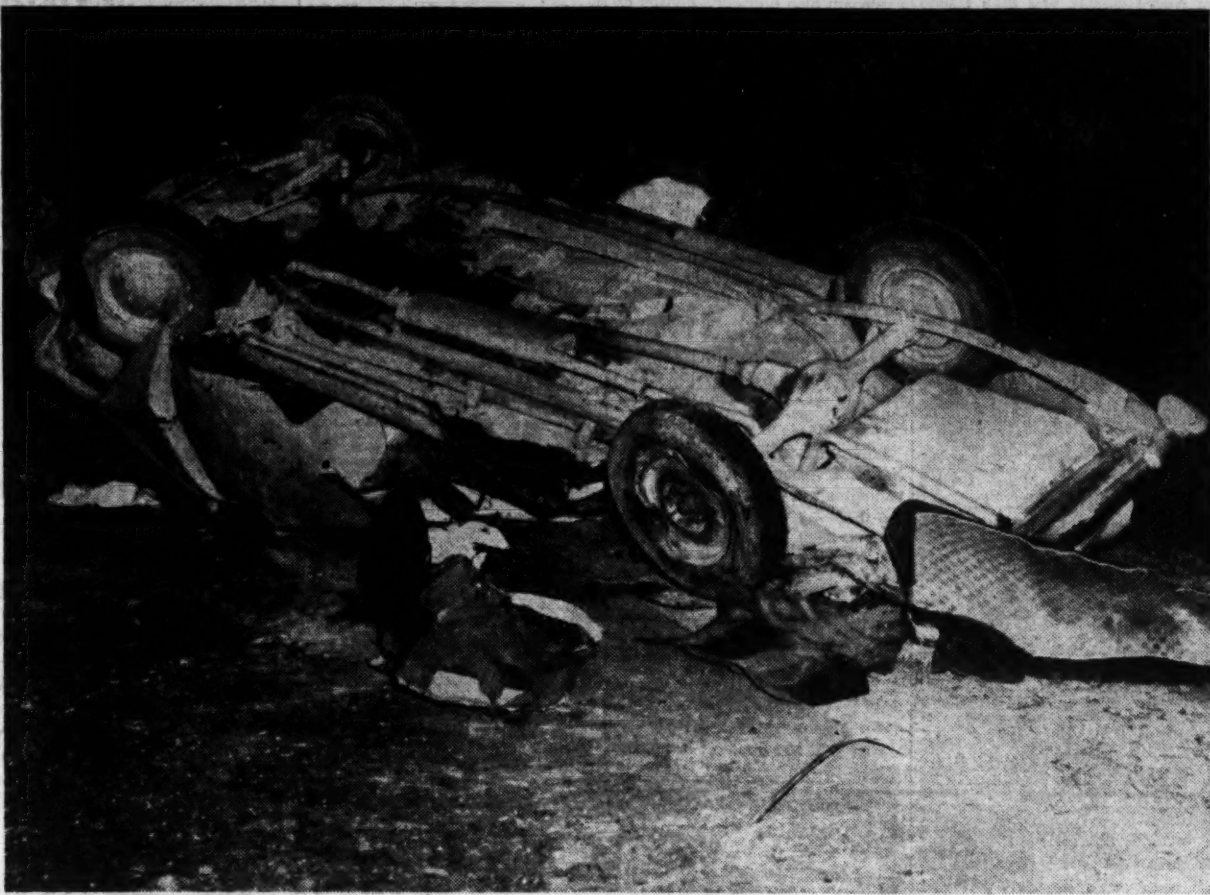

Ringed about every city in Africa, in Latin America and the Middle East is a city of shacks and huts. They may be of mud and straw, of old tins flattened out, or of palm fronds interlaced. This is true, too, in Southeast Asia, in India and Hongkong.

It is easy for demagogues to persuade them that foreigners in business are exploiting them. But the truth is, everywhere, that the real exploiters have been their own ruling classes. The American business men in Cuba, for example, were compelled to do business according to the dictates of the government. They could not pay wages above the approved level. To do business, they had to play by the government's rules. These were often corrupt. This has been the dilemma of foreign investors everywhere. Since they were, and are, a part of the pattern they were vulnerable to charges of foreign exploitation.

Our State department properly worries about the world's census clock.

It adds to the world's discontent. It produces more and more pressure for immediate change. It enlarges the ring of urgent poverty about cities of underdeveloped countries. The most demanding problems are in Africa, Latin America, India.

The problem is the more acute because the Communists know this very well. It costs them little to agitate discontent, to say, "We are for you."

AUTOMOBILE OVERTURNED AFTER IT WAS HIT FROM REAR BY PICKUP TRUCK
Two Children Killed After Being Hurlled from Parents' Automobile On South Cobb Drive In Cobb County

2 Children Die, 5 Hurt
As Truck Slams Auto

MARIETTA—Two children were killed near here Tuesday night and five other persons, including their parents and a brother and sister, were injured when a pickup truck rammed into their automobile, demolishing both vehicles.

All of the occupants of both vehicles were hurled onto the highway after the impact, Cobb County Patrolman Harold Davis said.

The dead were identified as Kenneth Russell, 6, and his sister, Faye, 3, the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin B. Russell of 568 Markee Court, Apt. 4, Marietta.

WIFE IN SHOCK

Russell, 27, received lacerations of the face and back injuries in the wreck. His wife Mary, 24, was rushed to Kennestone Hospital in a state of shock.

Their 18-month-old daughter, Brenda, also received painful cuts and bruises about the face. The Russell's other child, 5-year-old Eddie, received abrasions and a possible neck injury.

Lonnie Shell, 29, Rte. 4, Smyrna, driver of the pickup truck which struck the Russell automobile from the rear, received lacerations of the head and knees from the impact.

Patrolman Davis said the wreck occurred on South Cobb drive just north of Cooper Lake road.

He said as far as he could determine Shell's pickup truck slammed into the Russell automobile and sheared off the right side of the car, hurling the entire family into the roadway. Shell was hurled into a ditch after colliding with the automobile.

Patrolman Davis said he booked Shell on a charge of driving under the influence-accident.

All of the injured were rushed to Kennestone Hospital following the wreck. Six-year-old Kenneth

Reds Shell Quemoy

TAIPEI, Formosa (U) — Communist Chinese guns lobbed six shells on the offshore Quemoy Islands Tuesday night, the Chinese Nationalist Defense Ministry reported. The action was the first against the islands in six days.

Lord, a former U.S. district attorney, won his primary contest with expected ease over Richard M. Glassner, 63, a Newark lawyer who offered only token opposition. Lord, backed by the entire state Democratic organization, led Glassner 79,108 to 12,855.

In Louisiana, Democratic nominee Jimmie Davis smothered Republican Francis Gravenberg and two lesser foes and apparently swept to another term as Louisiana governor.

With more than half the expected vote in from 1,409 of the state's 2,109 precincts, Davis showed 274,489 votes, more than a 4-1 margin over Gravenberg former chief of the state police.

In New Jersey, Morris got the support of the conservative segment of the Republican Party but his main attack on Case charged the senator with abandoning the Eisenhower administration's fight against inflation.

... And Early to Rise

STOKE NEWINGTON, England (UPI)—Naturalist John Eserin complained to police Tuesday that some early bird broke into his laboratory and stole 30 cans of worms.

The company, through its manager of exploration, Stewart Cronin of Chicago, offered to lease a strip of state-controlled offshore geologist who said he was representing himself and 18 other oilmen from Texas.

Pure, who several days ago uncapped a sudden spurt of interest in the possibility of Georgia offshore oil by applying for drilling rights, was the apparent high bidder moneywise.

The company, through its manager of exploration, Stewart Cronin of Chicago, offered to lease a strip of state-controlled offshore geologist who said he was representing himself and 18 other oilmen from Texas.

Bids were submitted by Pure Oil Co., Hunt Oil Co. and by Roderick A. Stamey, a Hinesville

Russell was pronounced dead on arrival. His three-year-old sister died a few minutes later.

Three ambulances were dispatched to the scene to rush the injured to the hospital.

Cobb County police said the grim wreck, which demolished both the pickup truck and the Russell automobile, was one of Cobb County's worst collisions in recent months.

The wreck occurred shortly past 8 p.m. on one of Cobb County's more heavily traveled roads.

All Quiet in Hahira---
Paddle and Pupils Too

HAHIRA—Tranquility returned to Hahira High School Tuesday afternoon after a furor about the paddling of a 14-year-old student and students to stage a demonstration in front of the school.

Principal A. B. Martin and all 31 teachers resigned Tuesday after the county school board failed to voice support of the faculty at a meeting Monday. Martin and a teacher were charged by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cornelius with assault in paddling their son, Earl, twice in one day.

However, the faculty withdrew the resignations Tuesday afternoon when Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius agreed to drop charges.

And the Lowndes County School Board, in a hurriedly called meeting, agreed to assure support of the faculty in matters of school discipline.

While the board met, approximately 150 students marched up and down in front of the school, chanting:

"We want our teachers back."

Several students went to a local radio station and pleaded over the 5 Cities;

U.S. Critical

By C. S. CHIN

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Defiant students and townspeople armed with guns, knives and clubs held mob control over northeastern Seoul Wednesday in the bloody, fiery Korean civilian revolt against alleged political corruption. Ruins of public buildings still smoked from mob-set fires.

Korean military forces were moving relentlessly into the capital. Eighty-one persons were reported killed and 300 wounded, including two Americans.

On the international front the United States rebuked the Korean government for repressive measures.

HERTER CRITICAL

In Washington, Secretary of State Herter said the strong measures taken to put down the disorders were "unsuited to a free democracy" and asked the Korean government to put an end to the bloodshed.

President Syngman Rhee's government—now in its fourth year—was facing the gravest crisis since the Korean War. It called soldiers into Seoul and proclaimed martial law here and in four other cities Tuesday night after clashes between police and 100,000 demonstrators challenging the count of ballots in recent national elections.

The soldiers quickly cleared most streets in Seoul and other cities and restored a brooding peace.

HUNDREDS DEFY

But in northeastern Seoul, hotbed of resistance to Rhee's ruling Liberal party, hundreds of die-hard demonstrators still roamed. Army tanks and truckloads of soldiers moved on that sector Wednesday morning.

School boys were in the forefront of Tuesday's swirling battle where tear gas fell thick and police rifles poured volley after volley into the ranks of the demonstrators.

Many victims were seen crawling from the scene or being carried away on the backs of comrades.

Police said 21 were killed, but unofficial totals were 81 killed and 300 wounded.

Seoul was grim and battle-

U.S. Brands Castro
A Dictator in Dark

By STEWART HENSLEY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States Tuesday in effect branded Premier Castro of Cuba as a dictator who is seemingly unaware of the danger international communism poses for all free men.

The State department declared in a biting statement that "one of the principal trademarks of a dictatorship such as that of Hitler and Mussolini was the muzzling of the free press." It then said that 95 per cent of the Cuban press is under government control.

The department called on Castro and the Cuban people to awaken to the Communist menace.

The department's press officer, Lincoln White, read the statement to newsmen when asked to comment on Castro's charge that the United States "appears to have adopted a policy that in other times served to advance fascism."

Castro also had said in his semi-official newspaper Revolucion that there was "some similarity elimination of discrimination by the Panama Canal Co. against native employees in job assignments, pay and housing.

The program was prepared by the State Department after negotiation with Panamanian officials, following anti-American riots there last fall.

Last December native rioters attempted to tear down the American flag in the Canal Zone and demanded that the flag of Panama also be flown in the zone.

The U.S. thus far has resisted the idea of flying the Panamanian flag alongside the Stars and Stripes in the Canal Zone, but the

De Gaulle
Asks Delay
On Germany

OTTAWA (UPI)—French President De Gaulle suggested Tuesday that next month's East-West summit conference sidetrack the German problem to avoid a possible stalemate at its outset.

In a major statement on the French summit position, De Gaulle told a Canadian government luncheon that the Paris meeting of the Western Big Three and Soviet Premier Khrushchev must begin with an easing of tensions.

"That implies the avoidance at present of any debating stalemate, any threat in connection, for instance, with the problems of the German people," he said.

French sources said the statement amounted to an invitation to strike the German and Berlin questions from the summit agenda. They said the proposal was given special emphasis by the President.

De Gaulle, who swung into the heart of his four-day Canadian tour with a busy all-day agenda, advocated that the Paris summit concentrate instead on disarmament. It should seek at least a beginning in agreement on nuclear missiles and carrier aircraft, items which were still uncontrollable, he said.

As a final item for summit consideration, he put forth a French proposal already rejected at least temporarily by the Western Allies. East and West should study the organization of a "basis of co-operation to transcend political rivalries in the development of needy peoples," he said.

Savannah Shotgun-Guard
To Patrol Strife-Torn Section

SAVANNAH (UPI)—Police said Tuesday a guard armed with a shotgun will be stationed at a nurses' home here in the area where a wild fight broke out between Negroes and whites.

The racial battle was touched off late Monday night, according to police, when a group of Negroes made "insulting remarks" to some student nurses as the Negroes walked along the street in front of the nurses' home.

A crowd of white youths gathered and a fight broke out in Forsyth Park across the street from the Candler Hospital. The Negroes and whites battled with knives and ax handles.

Four were injured, one seriously. Seven whites and two Negroes were jailed.

Police still were investigating the incident Tuesday before filing formal charges. Those arrested were identified as George Taylor, 17; Donnie Anderson, 17; Donald Ginn, 22; Darvin Morris, 17; Sonny Brewer, all white. The names of the two 16-year-old white youths were not released.

The Negroes arrested were Al Lewis Johnson, 22, and Ernest Singleton, 17.

Officers said a guard armed with a shotgun will be stationed at the nurses' home in the future.

18, was stabbed in the side of the neck and taken to a hospital. He was reported in "fair" condition Tuesday.

The others injured were treated for cuts and bruises and released.

Recorder's Court Judge George E. Oliver Tuesday dismissed disorderly conduct charges against both Marvin Crumpton, 29-year-old white man, and Benjamin B. White Jr., 18, Negro Savannah State College student, who were involved in a sitdown fight last week.

Lassie Wags in Ecstasy--- His Broken Tail Is Mended

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Lassie's tail is back to normal.

The collie star of movies and television broke it last Feb. 13 while romping with other dogs in the kennel of his master, Rudd Weatherwax. His 4-month-old son ran into him, snapping the tail four inches from the base.

When Weatherwax noticed a day or so later that the dog was carrying the tail crookedly, he put it in a splint for four days. It is now completely healed.

The Lassie TV series was not in production at the time.

Rights Bill Speeded to House Okay

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Civil rights legislation designed primarily to help Negroes vote cleared its next to last barrier Tuesday and headed toward final congressional passage Thursday.

The House Rules Committee, which channels legislation to the floor, approved 8-to-4 a resolution which permits the House to accept the bill as approved by the Senate April 8. The Senate made 16 changes in the measure originally passed by the House.

House acceptance of the revisions will send the bill to President Eisenhower for his signature and formally conclude the turbulent election-year civil rights battle that tied up the Senate for the better part of two months.

The heart of the bill is a provision which would authorize federal courts to appoint referees to register Negroes in areas where voting discrimination is found to exist. The bill also would crack down on "hate bombings" and give the courts a new weapon to enforce school desegregation.

The Rules Committee action assured final passage of the bill since it permitted the House to act on the measure by a simple majority vote. Without such clearance, a two-thirds majority would have been necessary for passage.

Negroes March in Nashville

By GAVIN SCOTT
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Thousands of Negroes marched to the office of Mayor Ben West shortly after noon Tuesday in dramatic protest against segregation—"and now a bombing."

The mayor met the group on the steps at City Hall and told their leaders in answer to questions that he personally thought it wrong to discriminate against anyone because of race.

"Do you recommend the merchants open their lunch counters to all citizens?" Miss Diane Nash, Negro student at Fisk University, asked.

"Yes," West replied. His answer was followed by cheering from the crowd, consisting mostly of Negro college and high school students.

The protest march was formed a few hours after the home of Negro lawyer Z. Alexander Looby, an integration leader and city councilman, was dynamited while he and his wife slept in a back bedroom. Neither was injured.

The house was about 85 per cent destroyed and police said they believe the dynamite was thrown from a passing car. The explosion also damaged houses on each side of the Loooy home. Windows were blown from buildings at Meharry Medical College across the street and buildings were jarred at nearby Fisk University, another Negro school.

NO CLUES REPORTED

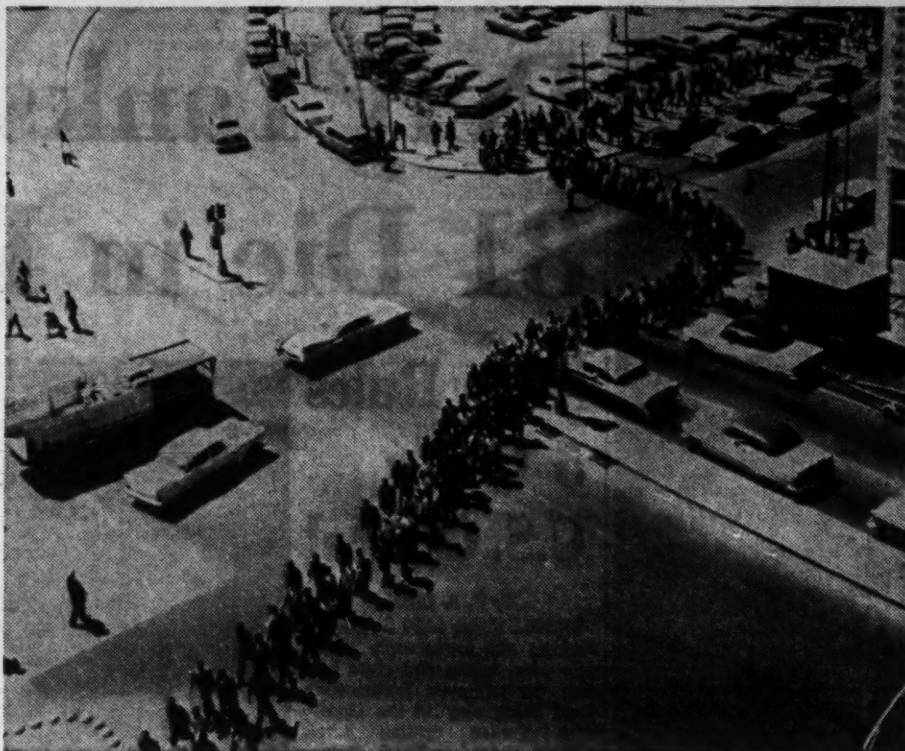

Police Chief Douglas Hosse assigned Lt. Rex White, the city's top authority on explosives, to the investigation. The Federal Bureau of Investigation offered the use of its laboratories.

White spent several hours at the Loooy home, sifting through the debris but gave no indication whether he had uncovered any clues.

Loooy, 62, a life member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the bombing would not intimidate him or keep him from continuing his work.

SITDOWNERS' LAWYER

A veteran member of the Nashville City Council, Loooy has represented scores of Negro college students arrested here in recent weeks during lunch counter sit-down demonstrations. Nearly 150 such cases are pending in court.

TV Station In Missile Is Launched

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (UPI)—A Redstone ballistic missile carrying a miniature television station was fired Tuesday by Army troops at White Sands missile range in southern New Mexico.

The "Flying TV Station" enables a ground commander to see actual damage inflicted by the missile at a receiving point 75 miles away, the Army said.

A similar test was made March 15.

The camera is housed in a small, cone-shaped capsule and ejected from the Redstone during flight. While falling to earth it photographs the impact point of the missile warhead and resultant damage.

The receiver for the pictures transmitted Tuesday was 75 miles from impact point.

Oil Lease Decision Is Wisely Delayed

The Georgia Minerals Commission acted properly yesterday in hanging out the "go slow" sign in leasing oil, gas and mineral rights in tidelands along the Georgia coast.

After all these years there is no need for haste. And certainly there is evidence from within the commission of uncertainty and confusion about what it is doing. As long as doubt exists in the minds of such people as Secretary of State Ben Fortson and Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook, more careful planning of procedures and action is indicated.

If Georgia can profit from mistakes of others, for instance, why should not a more careful study be made of the experience of other states? Why sign away mineral rights without more accurate knowledge of all that's involved, including possible millions in revenues that might be lost?

There appears to be considerable uncertainty, for instance, whether there are adequate surveys or maps of accurate property boundaries—at least not good enough to provide all the needed specifications for leases. This discourages prospective bidders, we are told, and leaves the way open for possible endless litigations.

And if there is oil along the coast, would it not be feasible to set up tracts instead of lumping leases into vast acreages? Secretary Fortson yesterday said he had information that other oil companies would have been interested in bidding had they known about it. So why all the haste?

The commission, therefore, acted wisely in its decision to take no action on yesterday's bids until Gov. Vandiver returns to the Capitol. In view of the state's lack of experience in such matters and the fact that all legal safeguards have not been spelled out, delay is the wiser course.

The whole matter requires restudying. After all, any oil, gas or mineral resources in the tidelands belong to the people. The state is only the custodian. And the people are entitled to the best deal they can get from said custodian.

De Gaulle Welcomed On Crest of Prestige

President de Gaulle of France arrived in Canada Monday to begin his tour of the North American continent. He will arrive in Washington later in the week and will visit several of our major cities.

It goes without question after his reception of Khrushchev and his great success on his recent trip to Britain that De Gaulle's international prestige is at its highest peak. He has succeeded in one of his greatest ambitions in achieving a major role for France in international circles.

But at home there are signs of increasing trouble for him in domestic affairs. The Algerian conflict continues in its sixth year. French farmers are unhappy to the point of rioting. De Gaulle has relegated the French Assembly to a minor role and the politicians are resentful.

These factors could produce in time a political crisis in France. But De Gaulle still has the backing of the majority of French people and possesses extraordinary powers which they have granted him. Should a crisis develop, the once weak executive department can move with decision.

President de Gaulle is certain to receive a warm welcome in the United States. Friendship between the American and French people is traditional and they admire the determined and colorful leader who has demonstrated qualities of greatness. They pray and hope that he will be able to complete his successful program of reforms in building a stronger and more stable nation.

Forest Fire Prevention Calls for Extra Effort

Thanks to the efforts of firefighters, scientific methods of combatting blazes and rains that fell in the nick of time, approximately 80 forest fires that roared through northwest Georgia mountainous areas are subdued.

But the toll was heavy. An estimated 3,000 acres of private timberland were damaged.

Carelessness and downright stupidity were responsible as is the case with the majority of conflagrations. Georgia Forestry Commission officials attribute the fires to debris burning and believe that some were of incendiary origin. Timber damage from winter storms added fuel to the flames.

As pointed out by James C. Turner, assistant director of the commission, cooperation is needed to prevent losses from soaring in the months ahead. Those who set trash fires and allow them to get out of hand are responsible for much damage, as are careless campers, motorists who throw lighted cigarette butts from their cars and persons who deliberately ignite fires out of meanness or a warped way of satisfying their egos.

Forestry is a multimillion-dollar business in Georgia. In view of the damage already caused by ice storms and the added danger resulting from fallen trees and broken limbs, every precaution should be exercised to prevent additional millions of dollars going up in flames.

South Korean Tragedy Will Embarrass U.S.

The United States has suffered another propaganda setback in Asia and the Communists are gleeful.

Mobs protesting the autocratic rule of U.S.-supported President Syngman Rhee of South Korea were fired upon yesterday in Seoul by government troops. At least 82 were killed and several hundred were wounded in a brutal suppression of demonstrations protesting last month's national elections—doubtless with U.S. arms provided for defense against the Reds.

The demonstrations, which began some days ago in other cities, finally spread to the South Korean capital. The rioters claim the election was rigged by the Rhee government and there is evidence of justification of the charge.

The United States, which saved South Korea from conquest by Communists from the north, has been forced to stick with Syngman Rhee as the lesser of evils. It has been no secret that his rule was becoming unpopular and bordered upon despotism. He has held a club over Washington with threats of resuming the war with North Korea.

Regardless of all the reasons, the United States now finds itself involved in another of those positions of upholding a dictatorial government out of expediency. Now that it has turned the military loose upon the populace, our embarrassment will be worldwide and the Communists will make the most of it. The fact that Syngman Rhee, like Chiang Kai-shek, has us over a barrel will not mitigate the tragedy.

There is one saving feature. The South Koreans, goaded by Communists, are demonstrating for democracy, not communism. Our distress is none the less keen for that knowledge.

Selection of Millican Adds Strength to Board

In selecting G. Everett Millican to fill the position left vacant on the board by the resignation of Hamilton Douglas, the Atlanta Board of Aldermen could not have made a better choice. He knows the community well, its needs and its people.

Mr. Millican, a successful businessman, has made more than his share of civic contributions. His experience as a member of the board and his 18 years as a member of the State Senate leave him no stranger to practical politics. During his years of public service, too, his reputation for character and integrity stood many a successful test.

While Fulton County legislators have rough going as a rule in the General Assembly, Mr. Millican became one of the most powerful lawmakers in that body because of the respect he earned for his views and for his ability as a fighter.

We congratulate the board for naming him and Mr. Millican for his willingness to serve. He brings great experience, wisdom and ability to the city's ruling body.

Now Let's See Slums Placarded Without Delay

The Atlanta aldermanic board, in authorizing placards to designate slum dwellings as unfit for human habitation, has given urban renewal officials a badly needed weapon in the war against blight.

It should have a deterrent effect on greedy property owners who believe in pocketing all they can from rentals and spending nothing on upkeep and improvements. Such practice is contemptible. All legal means of stamping it out should be exercised to the utmost.

The signs also should provide prospective tenants all the information they need as to whether to move in or look for other housing.

Now that authorities have this new weapon with which to work, no time should be lost in putting it to proper use.

Atlantan Says History of Ancient Nations Proves Excessive Taxation Leads to Ruin

Atlanta—"Taxes pay for civilization," said Ralph McGill in a recent column.

The history of several ancient civilizations that were taxed to death, including Rome, shows that any time a people are taxed more than a fourth of their income their civilization either declines or disappears. According to a noted American economist, Americans now are taxed approximately 42 per cent of their gross incomes in state, federal, city, county and numerous so-called hidden taxes.

Now that we have such high taxes in this country, what kind of civilization have they bought? We have the largest national debt of any country in the world—in fact, larger than that of all the other countries of the world combined.

We have the highest crime rate of any nation on earth and the most juvenile delinquency.

On a state level, we have just seen the most corrupt administration in Georgia history go out of office leaving such a stench of scandal that a national magazine recently saw fit to devote a full length article to it. Our roads are among the worst in the union and yet we are taxed to the hilt to pave rural roads for influential farmers to ride about and look at their crops.

What becomes of all the money we pay in taxes? Why, we use it to buy more civilization.

Georgians Overlook Profit From Tree-Farming Crops

It is distressing to note that Alabama has forged ahead of Georgia as the state ranking second in the nation in acreage devoted to tree farming. For it means that Georgians are not taking advantage of their wealth in woodlands to the fullest. From size alone—Georgia is the largest state east of the Mississippi River—it could be expected our state should be tops.

Alabama has 1,490 tree farms with 4,942,020 acres; Georgia has 612 tree farms totaling 4,810,394 acres. The state which ranks first, Florida, has only 406 tracts certified as tree farms but these holdings make up a total of 5,199,359 acres.

For Georgia, Florida and Alabama, that is a lot of land being managed in a manner to earn the distinction of "tree farm." The title is bestowed on those lands which are operated to get the most in wood products and dollars. The woodlands actually are "cultivated," in a manner of speaking, much like the ordinary farm is cultivated. Lands are planted to saplings where necessary, cuttings are made selectively to produce maximum growth from the remaining trees and the trees are worked for naval stores or converted into wood products at the optimum stage of growth for top output and dollar value.

In short, the tree farm means that the timberland owner, like the row crop farmer or livestock raiser, is not content to let nature take its course. He uses the advice of state foresters or the trained foresters of cooperative wood-using corporations to make even more wood and naval stores and dollars than a beneficent nature has already bestowed upon his land in this section of the country.

A comparison of the number of tree farms with the total acreages in the three leading states bears up what forestry leaders have lamented about for many years. The smaller landowners have not yet realized that proper management of their woodlands can be a paying proposition just as good forestry management is profitable for the large landowners. Alabama has more than twice as many tree farms as does Georgia. The total Alabama acreage is not considerably more than Georgia's. This indicates that in Alabama there are many more smaller landowners who have discovered the dollar value of maintaining their woodlands according to "tree farm" standards. Big wood-using industries supporting vast numbers of workers and paying out huge payrolls are comparatively recent in the Southeast. These industries, to get these trees, pay out whopping amounts of money to the owners of the land supplying these trees. The small landowners can get their share of this money just as the larger landowners are doing. And the tree farm way of managing woodlands will assure the small landowners of getting their full share.

in any town is trained in emergency first aid. It seems that some of Atlanta's policemen have not received such training.

Recently I was in a local restaurant. Also present were two Atlanta policemen. A young man fainted and fell from the counter stool onto the stone floor. Neither of the policemen could or did render any assistance. The management at this restaurant knows I am in the medical profession and asked me to help. I did what I could until the Grady ambulance arrived to take him to the hospital.

Knowledge in basic first aid could save a man's life!

Care for the Aged Termed Inadequate

New York, N.Y.—James Reston recently pointed out in one of his articles that there is an annual personal income in this country of 393 billion dollars, that there are still 32.2 million people living on less than $50 a week for a family of four and that included in these 32 million are one-fifth of the nation's children and eight million people over 65.

Reston's figures give us quite an optimistic assurance. It is true that there are eight million elderly living on less than $50 a week. Unfortunately, however, the fact is that of that eight million, a large percentage of the older people, especially those over 80, receive a pension of only $35 per month.

When Teachers Get to Teach

One meets old friends suddenly and in unexpected places. Each week the mail brings booklets from the National Education Assn. and its affiliates. The latest to arrive is a treatise with a black, red and orange cover, "New Directions in Quality Education" by J. Lloyd Trump, director, Commission on the Experimental Study of the Utilization of the Staff in the Secondary School.

Some title but in small print so it did not cover the cover. I look inside and see a picture of the author.

He is my old friend, J. Lloyd Trump, one year ahead of me in college. Now he is an educator's educator.

The substance of his report, "New Directions in Quality Education," is seemingly summed up in this quote:

"The image of the school of the future has been conceived in a hundred high schools. It is in the grasp of thousands. If it is conceived reasonably and created courageously, it may turn out to be the ideal marriage of form and function in which machines do the figuring, clerks do the clerking, teachers do the teaching, students do the learning... and no bells ring."

O happy day! When teachers no longer check the roll and count the lunch money and help on with overhauls but can concentrate instead on the professional duty of teaching Johnny to read, to write and to reason.

BABY-SITTING: Frank Rowsey, soft drink publicist, called to say, among other things, that he recently had spent two and a half hours at the Truman Library, Independence, Mo. He watched Thomas Hart Benton work on a mural of America which will take six years to complete.

He had a chance to talk to the man "up there on the scaffold," Frank says, "immortalizing himself and painting 'Wagon Train' as it ought to be painted."

Harry and Bess were not at home. They were in New York baby-sitting for Margaret and Clifton Daniel while that pair is in Europe.

JEST FOR TODAY: "Willie, why are you rolling the trash can all over the yard?"

Willie: "I am amusing my baby sister."

Regulatory Bodies Need Cleaning Up

WASHINGTON—A pattern of dubious conduct is continuing to disfigure the regulatory agencies of the United States government. The unsavory record includes the indictment of a federal communications commissioner for allegedly selling his vote in the Miami channel 10 case and the acceptance by three federal power commissioners of private-plane transportation given to them by a gas pipeline company with 45 million dollars in rate increases pending before the commission.

The offenses against sound public policy center on two main aspects of misconduct. One concerns backdoor, under-the-table, over-the-cocktail-ex parte contacts between applicants and the commissions and the other concerns the acceptance by commissioners of substantial favors and hospitality from industry people with business before the commissions.

There is no evidence that the situation is getting better. At points it is getting worse. It is getting so bad that some of the principal regulatory commissioners can't tell the difference between what is right and wrong, between what is ethical and what is unethical.

The moral climate is sorry and somebody needs to do something about it. Either Congress will have to try to do it by legislation or President Eisenhower—number one of whose appointees have seriously let him down—could usefully invite resignations if the commissioners are not prepared to hew to the line of ethical conduct. Or both.

Some are disposed to extenuate the acceptance by the chairman of the Federal Power Commission, Jerome Kuykendall, and two other commissioners of the gift of private-plane transportation to attend the funeral of a fellow commissioner in Shreveport, La. But two facts must stick in the craw of anybody who feels that the commissioners, like judges, should not be beholden to those over whom they must sit in judgment.

It apparently never even occurred to Chairman Kuykendall to ask the controller general whether such a trip was a reasonable charge against the government. Nor did he seek commercial transportation. He said he "couldn't afford it." The United Gas Pipe Line Co. offered its plane. He accepted.

This transportation gift to the three federal power commissioners by a company with business before the commission could, perhaps, be extenuated if it were an isolated instance. It isn't. It is part of a long, unending pattern of dubious conduct by commissioners accepting interested hospitality and engaging in behind-the-scenes contacts which Atty. Gen. Rogers has urged Congress to forbid as improper.

I can't escape the conviction that the Eisenhower administration will regret it if it doesn't act decisively to disavow and disassociate itself from this sorry record. The only way to do so is to clean it up—and clean it out.

Today's Disciples Also Face Tests

When the sons of Zebedee were clamoring for high places in Christ's kingdom, our Lord raised His hand in caution. They wanted some guarantee that when they had passed beyond the familiar scenes of Palestine their discipleship would be rewarded with seats of honor at Christ's right hand and at His left in eternal glory.

But Christ made the comment, "Ye know not what ye ask," and asked the searching question, "Are ye able to drink of the cup of suffering that I shall drink of, and to be baptized with the baptism of sacrifice that I am baptized with?"

To this the young men responded with spontaneous enthusiasm, "We are able." But when they came into the darkened circle of Calvary's tragedy they were not able. "The disciples forsook him and fled" is the cold judgment of the evangelist Matthew. Only after the brilliant rays of the Easter sunlight had purged and emboldened the lives of the sons of Zebedee were the young men made courageous to take up their crosses. Pious tradition tells us that in time both James and John suffered martyr's deaths.

But what I want to know is this: How are we enabled when James and John were not? We speak so often of following Christ and of taking up our crosses to walk along in the shadow of His passion. But do we—really? Don't we too often, with Peter, deny that we know Christ? Don't we, with the disciples, flee to the comforting and protecting shadows at Calvary's outer rim?

Sameness Hurts Democratic Race

WASHINGTON—The absence of clear political differences between Sens. Kennedy and Humphrey has considerable responsibility for highlighting the so-called religious issue which appeared in the Wisconsin primary and now looms in their contest in West Virginia. Both presidential candidates are "liberal" Democrats, committed to practically the same policies and the same large assignments of blame to the Eisenhower administration.

Both also offer pretty much the same solutions.

Given a choice like this, which may impress many as a choice between tweedledum and tweedledee, the voters are obliged to look elsewhere for criteria. These include appraisals of the personalities of a candidate and his family in the frame of White House incumbency and of the impressions he gives of decisiveness, administrative ability, sincerity and capacity to lead this troubled world and hold his own in international negotiation.

But also, when a Roman Catholic seeks the presidency, with strong political backing to help him to his goal, and he and his Protestant rivals seem to agree on proposed acts and policies the historic question of church and state is certain to become more prominent.

It would be a good day for the United States if Kennedy and Humphrey presented the Democratic voters of West Virginia with a fundamental difference of position on a national, international or local problem or on all three. It would be an even better day for the United States if the supporters of other Democratic presidential candidates who are not competing in the primary also would take sides.

Georgia's Ace-in-the-Hole Is 'Gone With The Wind'

By TED LIPPMAN

"No state, next to Virginia, is more glorious in Civil War history than Georgia."—Mrs. Mary Givens Bryan.

Most historians agree with Mrs. Bryan, Georgia's archives chief. (Most historians around here, anyway.)

Georgia did indeed play a mafor role in the Civil War. Enough happened in Georgia to make it a tourist's delight—if those events are memorialized in an attractive, informative, dramatic way.

Virginia, of course, holds a better hand. More happened there a hundred years ago. (More importantly, perhaps, more is happening there now: its plans for the centennial make Georgia war buffs blush with shame.)

Because so much of the war was fought there, because Davis reigned there, because Lee and Jackson lived and died there, Virginia almost has a pat hand for the centennial.

Georgia has a good hand, too: one it can capitalize on, both for tourists and for native Georgians. The hands were dealt a long time ago and Georgia got an ace-in-the-hole:

Gone With The Wind.

To the four million people who read Gone With The Wind and the hundred million who saw the movie and the countless millions who have heard all about Scarlett and Rhett from others, Georgia is the South and the Battle of Atlanta is the Civil War.

The movie is going to be released again during the centennial. A Broadway play is being planned. Georgia can capitalize on this mighty. (Then, too, there's Andersonville.)

Even without Margaret Mitchell's book, Georgia has a bona fide claim to being an important state in the Civil War period.

Atlanta is just as important a battle in the history books as it is in fiction. Chickamauga was one of the greatest battles of the war. The fighting all down through north Georgia from Chattanooga to Atlanta was some of the fiercest and most expert of the war. Sherman's march to the sea, more than anything else, beat the South, many historians argue.

It takes five legal-size pages to list the battles and skirmishes that took place in Georgia during the war. There were over 250 of them, according to the national centennial commission's list. Georgia historians want to prepare their own list (they can't, because there's no money). They think there are even more than the national commission listed.

There's plenty for Georgians to commemorate, to study and to appreciate. Plenty, too, for visitors to spend a day or two looking at.

Col. Allen Julian, director of the Atlanta Historical Society, is proud of Georgia and its part in the war. (He's not a native.) He's giving nothing away to Virginia. "Without Virginia," he says, "the Confederacy could have won the war."

Having a heritage and doing something about it are two different things. Georgia, so far, has done little. There have been some straws in the wind, however, that indicate that all that is needed at this point is a little more money, a little more leadership, a little more coordination to put the state squarely in the foreground of the centennial picture.

Atlanta Family Is Injured in Eastman Crash

Constitution State News Service
EASTMAN—An Atlanta funeral director and his family were hospitalized Friday when their automobile hit a dip in the highway and overturned twice.

State Patrolmen said Frank B. Lowndes, his wife and two young daughters suffered multiple lacerations in the wreck. Their conditions were listed as not serious.

Elizabeth Jean Lowndes, 15, was driving the vehicle, officers said. The girl, who holds a learner's permit, lost control of the car when it struck a depression in the road and her foot froze on the accelerator, patrolmen reported.

Where There's Smoke, There's Fire?

A kettle of burning tar in an alley between two downtown theaters sent up billowing clouds of smoke which attracted eight fire trucks and a mob of spectators Tuesday morning.

Assistant Fire Chief C. T. Ragsdale said the smoke at Banks place, NE, between the Paramount and Loew's Grand Theater buildings, made it appear one of the buildings was afire.

Firemen used foam to extinguish the fire in the kettle that was being used to re-tar the roof of the Loew's Grand Building.

Walt Kelly Joins in U.S. Dedication Of Fire Project at Pogo's Okefenokee

By JAMES SHEPPARD
Constitution Staff Writer
OKEFENOKEE SWAMP — A conservation project, aimed at stopping forever the disastrous fires which have charred this primitive wilderness, was dedicated here Tuesday.

Federal and state officials and Walt Kelly, whose Atlanta Constitution comic strip character Pogo has made "Okefenokee" a household word, took part in the ceremonies marking completion of the $728,500 federal project.

"Any time a fire gets started in the Okefenokee, it could smolder in some inaccessible place for weeks and in the process eat away the humus accumulations of centuries and destroy the patterns developed over such a long period of time," Rep. Iris Blitch said.

Mrs. Blitch of Homerville, who represents Georgia's 8th Congressional District, and Joe Morton of Waycross, a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service official who helped spearhead the project, were given the honor of cutting the ribbon opening a perimeter road which surrounds the swamp. The perimeter road and sill were built to raise the water level of the swamp. Extended droughts and wild fires in the past swept over the Okefenokee, causing almost complete destruction of the timber.

Because of the road and sill, the waterable now will not sink below the surface of the swamp floor as in the past when the peat beds went powder dry — a 600-square-mile tinderbox.

Rep. Blitch almost cried while dedicating the project. "After those devastating fires, neither my husband nor anyone else could persuade me to go and see the destruction which had been wrought," she said. "I was moved to tears and I could only cry, 'Our beautiful, beautiful, lovely swamp, I cannot bear to see you in your destructive nakedness.'"

The dedication kicked off the third annual Ware County Pine Tree Festival.

Crowned festival queen was pretty blonde, green-eyed Pam Rowe, a petite 16-year-old who is a sophomore at Ware County High School. Runner-up in the contest was Miss Millicent DeShazo, 16, of Waycross.

Miss Rowe was crowned by the 1959 queen, Miss Mercer Lois Jeffords, 17, as some 1,500 persons applauded and cheered at Laura S. Walker State Park.

Rev. Edmondson Dies Here at 84

The Rev. Robert A. Edmondson Sr., 84-year-old retired Methodist preacher, died Tuesday night in a private hospital. He had been a resident of College Park for the past several years.

The Rev. Mr. Edmondson had served for many years as secretary of the superannuates board of the North Georgia Conference.

He had held pastorates at St. Paul, St. John and Epworth Methodist churches in Atlanta.

In the state he had served as pastor of the First Methodist Church at West Point, Dalton, Rome, Carrollton, Milledgeville, Thomson, McDonough, Griffin and Stockbridge.

He was born in Forsyth County, and was graduated in 1895 from Emory-at-Oxford College.

Ordained at the age of 22, the Rev. Mr. Edmondson rode horseback through underbrush and mud to reach the tiny churches in his "circuit."

Later in his career he became known throughout the conference for his skill as a revivalist.

But some of the best persuading he ever did, he often told friends, was in setting up the now-renowned Coweta Possum Eaters Assn.

That was back in 1912, and "Brother Bob," as he was known in the possum-eating fraternity, attended 46 consecutive annual meetings. Ill health caused him to miss the last one, but he sent his regrets to the other 150 members of the group.

Funeral services will be at 1:30

Mrs. Sam Cohen Of Music Firm Dies at 62

Mrs. Sam Cohen, 62, co-owner of the Cohen Music Shop on Edgewood Ave., NE, died in a private hospital Monday night.

Born in Brooklyn, N.Y., Mrs. Cohen was brought here as an infant. She was the former Stella Friedman.

Mrs. Cohen lived at 863 Amsterdam Ave., NE, and was a member of the Eastern Star and the United Benevolent Assn.

Besides his interest in the music shop, her husband operates a television and radio repair business.

Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. Wednesday at Blanchard's Chapel, Dr. Harry H. Epstein and Cantor Joseph Schwartzman will officiate. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Other survivors include two brothers, Alfred M. and Jake Friedman, both of Atlanta, and three sisters, Mrs. Harry Goldwasser, Atlanta; Mrs. M. I. Simmons, Macon, and Mrs. Bert Phillips, Cincinnati, Ohio.

ROCKMART—Funeral services for Robert Morris Henderson, 46, who died Sunday, were held Tuesday in the Piedmont Avenue Baptist Church. Burial was in Rose Hill Cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Essie Hardy Henderson; one daughter, Mrs. Joe Morgan, Atlanta; one son, Bobby Henderson, Rockmart; his mother, Mrs. Ann Berry Henderson, Rockmart, and one sister, Mrs. R. S. Manning, Chickamauga.

Mrs. R. D. LaHayne

Mrs. Richard David LaHayne Sr., 38, the former Vermelle Chamblee of Atlanta, died Monday afternoon in Tampa, Fla., where she had lived for the past 10 years.

Mrs. LaHayne was a graduate of Hartwell (Ga.) High School and Georgia State College for Women. She was a member of Crystal Presbyterian Church and the Eastern Star in Tampa.

Her husband is a manufacturers' representative.

Other survivors include a daughter, Miss Annette LaHayne, and a son, Richard David LaHayne Jr., both of Tampa; her mother, Mrs. Lawrence A. Chamblee, and a sister, Miss Patty Chamblee, both of Atlanta.

Funeral services and burial will be in Tampa.

Kennedy Accepts Humphrey Debate

Can't Accept Attacks Without Fighting Back, He Declares

By HERB LITTLE

WHEELING, W.Va. (AP)—Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass), obviously irked at the persistent needling of Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) and his supporters, angrily accepted Humphrey's challenge Tuesday to a face-to-face debate in their presidential primary fight and made the subject of his religion a major topic in his hop-and-skip speeches.

The two moves represent a complete turnabout from his method of campaigning in Wisconsin, where he defeated Humphrey earlier this month.

"In view of the way the campaign is evolving in West Virginia," Kennedy said bluntly, "I can't accept the current attacks without fighting back."

He said he had refused to meet Humphrey on the same platform in Wisconsin because he felt it would be "harmful to the party and to the candidates to have intense personal debate."

But that's all changed now, he said.

Within a matter of hours, WSAZ-TV at Huntington, at the westernmost tip of the state, announced the two would appear on an hour-long television show at 10 p.m. (EST) on May 9—election eve.

In Washington, Humphrey's office issued a statement saying he was "delighted."

"Ever since the beginning of the campaign I have been recommending and urging joint discussion and debate," Humphrey said.

At a stop at nearby Bethany College, a heckler who trailed him through much of his Wisconsin campaign and is following him through northern West Virginia, asked Kennedy how he could square his duties as president with those of a Catholic.

"I don't take orders from above," Kennedy replied.

"I am going to go to church where I want, regardless of whether I'm elected president or not," he said.

This drew a long ovation from the students. Bethany is a Disciples of Christ school with an enrollment of 700.

Hedy Puts Stand-In In Divorce Court

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Actress Hedy Lamarr fired her lawyers and sent her movie stand-in to represent her at a divorce hearing Tuesday.

The actress dismissed her three Houston attorneys by mail. She sent Sylvia Hollos into Judge Ben Woodall's Domestic Relations Court as her stand-in.

Woodall ordered Miss Lamarr or a lawyer representing her to appear in court Wednesday. He said otherwise the trial will proceed on the motion of attorneys for her husband, oilman W. Howard Lee.

That means Lee could win an uncontested divorce, because he has filed a cross-action.

Miss Lamarr previously failed to appear twice at pre-trial hearings on proposed property settlements. Her absences caused Woodall to cut her monthly separation payments from $3,000 to $250.

Rocket Ship Streaks to 1,700 mph

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The rocket ship X15 Tuesday made its fastest flight to date—about 1,700 miles per hour. Previous high was about 1,400 miles per hour.

The 1,700 m.p.h. is no record. The experimental X2 rocket plane hit better than 2,000 m.p.h. several years ago. The X15, with more powerful engines, is expected ultimately to fly 4,000 m.p.h. to heights of 100 miles or more.

Joe Walker, pilot for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, was at the controls. It was his second X15 flight and the fourth for this, the No. 1 ship of the three X15s.

The 50-foot black dart was dropped at 45,000 feet at 8:52 a.m. from its B32 mother ship, flew under power for four minutes, zooming to 60,000 feet, and landed at 9:02 a.m.

S. Africa's Negroes Pour Back to Jobs

By LEONARD INGALLS

(Copyright 1960 by the New York Times Co.)

JOHANNESBURG—African workers flocked back to their jobs Tuesday in South Africa after a four-day Easter holiday, ending the threat of a week-long strike.

For the present, the racial strife that has gripped the country for a month appeared to have subsided. The work-stoppage threat was a gesture of defiance by African political organizations that have been driven underground by the government during the state of emergency.

Large forces of police supported by armored cars and troops were on hand in the main centers during the morning and again at night, but no disturbances developed.

WENT TO WORK

At dawn long, orderly queues of Africans began to form at railway stations and bus stops, and it soon became apparent that the call for the country's large African labor force to stay at home in protest against the government's racial segregation policies had been ignored.

The call was issued by an emergency committee of the African National Congress and was supported by the Pan-Africanist Congress. Both organizations have been banned for one year.

The only arrests reported during the day were made at Port Elizabeth, an important Indian Ocean port and manufacturing center. Police, aided by troops and armored cars, seized and held 165 Africans. The government forces first protected Africans in the area who wanted to go to work, then moved in and arrested what they described as "undesirable elements."

FOUND GUILTY

At East London, another Indian Ocean port, the 400 Africans arrested Monday were fined $2.80 or eight days in jail each for being in an African township near there without permission. They were found guilty of laws requiring Africans to carry identity passes to move about and controlling their influx into urban

Chou Gets Cool Greeting From Nehru

By PAUL GRIMES
(Copyright 1960 by the New York Times Co.)
NEW DELHI—Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China arrived here Tuesday to a welcome that was diplomatically correct but hardly friendly.

He came for six days of talks with Prime Minister Nehru on a frontier dispute that has severely strained relations between the neighboring countries. He came at Nehru's invitation but with disapproval of many of the Indian people.

Nehru made clear in an airport speech that the dispute had created "grave problems." He recalled the five principles of peaceful coexistence that were agreed on by himself and Chou in 1954 and said:

"Unfortunately other events have taken place since then which have put a great strain on this bond of friendship and which have given a shock to all of our people. Thus our relations have been imperiled in the present and for the future and the very basis on which they stood has been shaken."

HARD TASK
Nehru said, "It is a hard task to go back and recover that feeling of good faith and friendship, and yet the future depends upon this." He added:

"I earnestly trust that our efforts will be directed toward undoing much that has happened."

Chou in his reply said he had come "with the sincere desire to settle questions." "Both our countries, China and India," he declared, "are now engaged in large-scale and long-term economic construction. Both of us need peace. Both of us need friends."

He said there was "no reason why any question between us cannot be settled reasonably through friendly consultations" in accordance with the five principles.

PEACE PACT
These principles were formulated in the preamble to a non-aggression pact signed by New Delhi and Peking. They call for mutual respect for each other's territorial integrity, non-aggression, non-interference in each other's internal affairs, equality and mutual benefit and peaceful co-existence.

Chou extended "cordial greetings" to "the great Indian people." Friendship between Indian and Chinese people, he declared, is "everlasting," he said:

"I earnestly hope that through our joint efforts our meeting will be able to yield positive and useful results."

Nehru asserted that peace was necessary between India and Communist China.

GOOD FAITH
"But that peace," he declared, "has to be based on good faith and understanding and in a strict adherence to those principles we had once proclaimed. It has to be not only an external peace but also a peace of mind."

Chou arrived in a four-engine Indian Air Force turboprop plane that had been sent to Rangoon to get him at the end of his four-day visit to Burma. He was the first to leave the plane and was greeted by Nehru and members of the Indian Cabinet.

City of Montgomery Sues Times for $1.5 Million

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Montgomery's three city commissioners Tuesday filed a $1.5 million libel suit against the New York Times in the wake of an advertisement which was critical of Alabama.

Co-defendants with the newspaper are four Negro clergymen active in integration work: The Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth of Birmingham; the Rev. J. E. Lowery of Mobile; and the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy and the Rev. S. S. Seay Sr., both of Montgomery.

Three suits seeking $500,000 each were filed individually in state court on behalf of Montgomery's Mayor Earl D. James and City Commissioners Frank W. Parks and L. B. Sullivan.

Appearing in the March 29 edition of the Times was the ad which sought to raise money to

End Klan Parades, Gainesville Urged

Constitution State News Service
GAINESVILLE—A Gainesville Negro community leader Tuesday called on the City Commission to "do something about" Ku Klux Klan parades which have been staged in the Negro section of town the past two Saturday nights.

Doc Chamblee, Negro pharmacist, told the commission:

"Race relations here have been excellent. But these parades are straining them."

The city commission instructed City Attorney Bill Gunter to draft an ordinance requiring all organizations to apply for a permit for parades at least 24 hours ahead of time.

A spokesman for the Klan said the Ku Klux planned to hold a third meeting "just outside the city limits next Saturday."

Lamb, 2 Rabbits, 3 Ducks, 5 Birds, 6 Mice

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—The Louis Monnig family, unwilling proprietors of a menagerie of 21 creatures that fly, hop, tunnel or merely run, prayed Tuesday that the shower of livestock would stop.

"We got four hamsters Monday," Mrs. Monnig said. "It was one lamb last Wednesday, two rabbits Thursday, three ducks Friday, five pigeons Saturday and six mice Easter Sunday."

"Now that the hamsters have accounted for the missing number in the sequence, maybe we can have some peace."

The Monnigs still didn't know where the animals were coming from.

The lambs, the ducks, the rabbits and the mice simply turned up on the porch or near the garage. The pigeons were delivered by a taxi driver who said he got them from "a little old lady." A boy brought the hamsters, but insisted he was pledged to secrecy about where he got them.

The Monnig children, Mary Patricia, 7, Louis, 6, Michele, 3, and 14-month-old Danny, were proud owners of an animal circus that attracted some 200 neighborhood children over the weekend. Mrs. Monnig was involved almost in spite of herself.

"We've had to study up on some of them," she said. "We have the hamsters in a large box with dirt in it since we learned they like to tunnel."

But she was firm in her decision that all the animals must go except the lamb.

"He, or she, is so cute," she said. "And, after all, we don't have a dog."

"If it's a practical joker who's sending the animals," Mrs. Monnig said, "it's certainly an expensive hoax. And if we get anything else, it's almost certain to be bigger."

She gasped.

"Forget I said that," she said. "I still think the hamsters wound it up."

Ike Firing FPC Foe of Gas Boosts

By ANTHONY LEWIS
(Copyright 1960, The New York Times Co.)
WASHINGTON—Sen. Bush (R-Conn.), said Tuesday that the White House had decided "some time ago" not to reappoint William R. Connole to the Federal Power Commission.

Bush said he was telephoned by the special counsel to the President, David W. Kendall, and told that Connole would not be reappointed. Kendall added, he said, that the decision was final and that Connole had been informed.

Connole, an independent from Connecticut, has been regarded during his five years on the FPC as the one member of the commission determined to hold down natural gas prices and protect the consumer.

For this reason rumors that he will be dropped have been raising a political outcry. His term expires June 22. It was disclosed just last weekend that the heads of seven state regulatory commissions had urged his reappointment.

The leading candidate to replace Connole is Harold I. Baynton, a Democrat from Reno, Nevada. Baynton, who was alien property custodian during the Truman administration, is now counsel of the Senate Commerce Committee.

There is another vacancy on the five-man commission. Like Connole's it must be filled by someone not a Republican. The statute limits any one party to three seats, and there already are three Republicans on the FPC.

It was learned Tuesday that Harry Wiles, a member of the Kansas Corporation Commission, is in line for the other vacancy. Wiles' politics is not known.

Connole has been grazed recently by charges of influence-peddling at the FPC. He was one of three commission members visited privately by Thomas G. Corcoran, lawyer for a gas pipeline company which had a big case pending at the FPC.

The others sent by Corcoran were Chairman Jerome K. Kuykendall and Arthur Kline. All, including Corcoran, will testify at a hearing of the House Subcommittee on Legislative Oversight May 2.

Rev. King Sends Protest to Truman

Former President Truman should prove his charge that Communists engineered Negro sitdowns in the South or apologize, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. said Tuesday.

Truman blamed the lunch-counter demonstrations on Communists in a talk at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y., Monday night.

The Rev. King, co-pastor of the Ebenezer Baptist Church here and an adviser to a recently formed student committee to coordinate segregation protests, said he has written a letter of protest to the former president.

King emphatically denied Truman's charge. "I have worked very closely with the students in this struggle and the one thing I am convinced of is that no outside agency initiated this movement or will dominate it in the future."

"It is a sad day when men come to feel that oppressed people cannot desire freedom unless they are inspired by Communism," the Rev. King said.

Small Dodge To Come Out This Year
DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. President L. L. Colbert announced plans to market another new compact car as the company blunted a minority stockholder revolt.

Colbert told a stockholders' meeting the company would "definitely be in the black" at the end of the current quarter and said it would market a new compact car in the Dodge line with introduction this year of the 1961 models to seek a bigger share of the 1961 market.

Shortly after Colbert's remarks, stockholders voted 7,243,000 to 20,501 to retain all members of the present board and 5,264,000 to 663,000 against changing the method of voting for board members.

Colbert said the company lost money in the last two years partially because of poor sales in the 1958 recession year and partially because of heavy investments in improving its car lines during 1959.

The box office will operate a referral service for the convenience of those who wish to buy and sell tickets. The box office will be open week days from 10 to 4 and during opera week every day until curtain time.

Woman Charged In Bedroom Slaying

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A murder charge was lodged Tuesday against a 27-year-old woman in the stabbing death of a man she says was her husband.

J. C. Patrick, chief criminal investigator, said he had filed the charge against a woman listed as Mrs. Carol Nadine Rogers Clark, although he said another woman was the man's real wife.

The slain man was Joseph M. Clark, 57, southeast sales manager for the Grolier Society, a textbook firm.

He was found dead of a single chest wound Monday in the bedroom of a home he rented in the exclusive Empire Point section.

A few hours later the other woman, Mrs. Roselle Frances Clark, 48, told police she is the real Mrs. Clark and that her husband had asked her to come up from her apartment in Daytona Beach to meet him Monday.

She said she knew about her husband's affair with the younger woman but denied that they were married.

Police said the woman with whom Clark had been living here told conflicting stories of how he was stabbed.

4 ♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♠

In today's hand a bit of carelessness on the part of both declarer and defender had the effect of canceling each other, and the final result was what nature had originally intended.

North opened with one club and South responded with one heart. West took advantage of what might be the only opportunity available, to enter the auction with a call of one spade. North passed and East raised to two spades in a mildly preemptive effort. South freely rebid his hearts and when this got around to North he raised to four. Though his hand was in the minimum range, the queen-jack of hearts had been promoted in value and should prove very useful to partner.

The ace of spades was opened and, when it snared declarer's king, West shifted his attention to the diamond suit. South won the queen of diamonds with dummy's ace and immediately took a trump finesse. West captured the trick with his king and returned the jack of diamonds. Playing in a lackadaisical manner, East permitted the jack to hold the trick and the hand was over. No matter what West did, declarer could draw trumps and throw his losing diamond on the dummy's clubs.

East's failure to overtake the jack of diamonds is, of course, inexcusable. If West has the third diamond, the defense might as well give up, since any club holding he might have is finessible. East, therefore, had nothing to lose by playing the king of diamonds and continuing the suit which would have permitted his partner to ruff away the ten.

Declarer, on the other hand, could have nullified all defensive efforts by permitting the queen of diamonds to hold at trick two. Now when he wins the continuation and takes the heart finesse, West will be unable to put his partner in and South's other diamond will go off on the clubs.

Declarer could hardly lose by

HEALTH: Arthritics Should Watch Weight

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have osteo-arthritis in the upper part of my spine, with calcium deposits in the left chest and intercostal neuralgia. Will diet help, or will certain foods aggravate the condition?—M. N.

Osteo-arthritis (as opposed to rheumatoid arthritis) is a condition which develops as we grow older, due to changes in the bones from wear and tear.

The neuralgia may be related to the arthritis. That is, the bone changes may be putting pressure on the nerve roots. However, there are various other causes of neuralgia.

As for the calcium deposits, these represent the healing of some previous infection. It is merely the sign that nature has been at work, and the calcium was laid down as a protective measure. So the calcium is no cause for concern.

Dieting will have no effect on this condition. It will not correct it and it will not aggravate it, the only qualifications I have to offer being these:

First, a normal, balanced diet should be followed, not with the idea that it will do anything about the arthritis and neuralgia, but with the idea of maintaining your health in general.

Second, if a person is overweight, it naturally puts more strain on arthritic joints, and a diet that will reduce the overweight is almost always a good measure.

Is there any treatment that will eliminate the after-effects of a hysterectomy?—O. B. P.

I wonder if that's the only word that has three O's in succession? Anyway: "Hystero-" means relating to the uterus; the "oophoro" refers to the ovary; the "ectomy," of course, means surgical removal. In your case, the removal of the ovaries (and their hormone-secreting properties) are the important problem.

Sometimes giving estrogen (the female hormone) is necessary until the body adjusts to a new hormone balance. In many cases, the use of a sedative is all that is necessary until the system makes the requisite adjustments.

Dr. Molner is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

ONLY AIR-COOLED RIVIERA
HAS THE TWIN-WHITE FILTER

Here's the happiest smoking since filters began! As the smoke slowly drifts through Riviera's "flavor-blend" of choice tobaccos, it carries with it the good, rich tobacco taste you want. Along the way it picks up throat-cooling menthol refreshment. Then the smoke breathes in extra coolness through the tiny air vents just ahead of the filter. The twin-white filter itself smooths the taste, makes it mild. That's why Riviera tastes so rich, so cool, so clean—feels so right to your taste, right to the end of the day!

Try Riviera—the Happiest Smoking since filters began!

Big Gains in State Predicted by GOPs

Open Schools Plank Will Win Voters, Say Shartzer, Snodgrass

Many Georgians who voted for Stevenson in 1956 will vote Republican in 1960 because of the "open schools" plank in the state GOP organization's platform, two top Georgia Republicans said Tuesday night.

William Shartzer, chairman of the Republican Central Committee in Georgia, and Robert Snodgrass, national committeeman, agreed that the "open schools" plank will gain more Republican votes in Georgia than Eisenhower's candidacy did.

The two Republicans made their comments on the WAGA-TV interview program, Reporter's Notebook.

Shartzer also told questioning newsmen that the Republican Party in Georgia has reached a "third plateau" in its drive for political power. The first plateau, he said, was reached after the party reorganized following the 1952 national convention. The second plateau was reached following the 1956 elections as the party began to strengthen itself. The third plateau, which is now in sight, is the entrance of more candidates in races in the state.

Snodgrass said "nothing would please us more than to have a Republican candidate for governor in 1962" but both GOPs agreed that it is doubtful the party will enter state office races any time soon, because of the money it would require.

Shartzer said it was possible that "identified Republicans" will soon be entering "bipartisan primaries" in Georgia cities where they are held.

Snodgrass predicted Nixon will be the Republican candidate for president. Both Republicans predicted Stevenson will be the Democratic candidate.

DeKalb Tags 9 Districts For Industry

Nine industrial districts in DeKalb County are now in planning stages, J. C. Haynes, president of the DeKalb Chamber of Commerce, told a group at a membership drive meeting Tuesday.

About 75 chamber members heard his address at a breakfast in the Candler Hotel which launched a drive for 100 new members and $16,000 in additional spending money.

Haynes said that the Boyle-Midway Division of American Home Products Corporation has selected one of the sites for a new plant. The plant will be the first in a 300-acre area on the Northeast Expressway adjacent to the DeKalb-Gwinnett line.

Boyle-Midway, first firm to locate on Peachtree Industrial Boulevard in 1947, will build a larger plant on the 25-acre site than its present plant which is 80,000 square feet, plant manager Joe Niener said.

Opening the district where the plant will locate followed "months of close work by the DeKalb County Commission, Southern Railway Co., and the DeKalb Chamber," Haynes reported.

The Chamber is seeking to increase its present 640 members to 1,000 this year and raise its budget to $50,000.00.

Howard Resigns As President of United American

Pierre Howard has resigned as president of United American Life Insurance Co. to re-enter the practice of law.

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, chairman of the board, announced Tuesday that Louis T. Bates, vice president and director of agencies, will succeed Howard as president. Charles H. Childs Jr. has been Louis T. Bates, Charles H. Childs Jr., elected executive vice president, and also will continue to serve as secretary and treasurer of the Atlanta firm.

Howard will continue as a member of the board of directors and will serve as legal counsel on the executive committee.

Emory Will Host History Teachers

George Barr Carson Jr., director of the National Service Center for Teachers of History, will be principal speaker at a conference for high school history teachers at 6 p.m. Friday in the Emory University Alumni Building.

Some 100 history instructors from throughout the state are expected to attend. Leaders will be Emory professors Joseph J. Matthews, George F. Brasington, Douglas A. Unfug, J. Harvey Young and Arthur T. Dietz, and Dr. Martin Abbott of Oglethorpe University.

Ray to Get New Parole Hearing

The Pardon and Parole Board is expected to give a second hearing later this month to a parole plea by Joseph W. Ray, former state sales tax director who pleaded guilty to embezzlement.

Ray's appeal was turned down April 11 after Chairman William Kimbrough and member Hugh Carney voted against it. Mrs. Rebecca Garrett, third member of the board, did not participate in the voting.

Ray's appeal was backed by numerous letters, including two from former Fulton Special Solicitor Paul Cadenhead and Robert H. Hall, head of the State Law Department Criminal Division.

Cadenhead and Hall cited Ray for his cooperation in their investigations.

Ray will have served his minimum sentence in November and could be released in October with good-time credit. He was eligible for parole in March.

Kimbrough and Carney were out of the city Tuesday and not available for comment. Mrs. Garrett also is out of the city.

But an office spokesman said the board probably would hear the case again as soon as all members return to Atlanta.

That probably will be after April 26, Confederate Memorial Day.

Georgia Society Gets George Walton Home

WASHINGTON (AP)—A long-forgotten deed to the Georgia home of George Walton, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, was handed over to the Georgia Society Tuesday by the national Daughters of the American Revolution.

The Georgia society has been taking care of the property for decades. It asked for the deed Tuesday at the DAR Continental Congress.

Walton's home, "Meadow Garden," in Augusta, Ga., was bought by the DAR for $2,000 back in 1909.

Hilton Gets Pouring Licenses

The Hapeville City Council granted licenses to the Hilton Inn Tuesday night which will permit the establishment to serve mixed drinks when it opens in June.

The council voted unanimously to grant a "retail wine license" and a "limited liquor license" upon request of the Inn's manager Lloyd Farwell. Fees were fixed at $1,500 for each license. The council also set a fee of $100 for a license permitting sale delivery of liquor.

But before the vote a citizen, C. F. Sartain, questioned Mayor Frank Coggin closely about the issue. He asked if the license was in conflict with the state law governing serving of liquor, and if the city planned to enforce the state law.

Coggin said that granting the license was not in violation with state law and said that no liquor had yet been poured.

Councilman C. C. Martin supported his vote for the measure by saying that the city's operating costs were increasing and that his vote was not a matter of "wet or dry" but a method of increasing taxes so that Hapeville could survive as a city.

What Makes Tornadoes Tick? Sunday's Magazine Takes a Look

These interesting articles are coming in Sunday's Atlanta Journal and Constitution Magazine:

TORNADO! ... Where or when a tornado will strike is still a mystery. Magazine staff writer Willard Neal tells us that this spring, however, the weather bureau is conducting extensive research to find out more about the devastating twisters; how they can be sighted and tracked, and most important, what actually triggers them.

MIDTOWN FESTIVAL ... May Day is a big day at downtown Georgia State College. Students at the steel and concrete campus transfer to beautiful Hurt Park for the festivities where song and dance are the order of the day and the May Queen rules supreme. Katherine Barnwell, magazine staff writer, reports on the plans for the 19th annual Spring Festival.

scarred on the morning after. Sixteen buildings were set afire and destroyed. Among them were 12 police stations and the pro-government newspaper Seoul Shinmun and the anti-Communist Center.

OTHER DESTRUCTION

Ten other police stations were damaged, and the windows of three government ministries and two other minor government buildings smashed in mob fury. Twenty vehicles, including seven fire engines, were burned or otherwise damaged.

The home of Vice President-elect Lee Ki-poong, reported earlier by some sources to have been burned, was still intact. His newspaper, Segye Ilbo, also reported burned, published Wednesday.

Kwangju, Pusan, Taegu, Tae all under martial law, also were quiet.

fices of the anti-Communist youth corps, accused of being a strong-arm organization, were attacked and damaged in Kwangju and Pusan.

A mopping-up operation apparently was in progress in the northeastern section of Seoul. Gunfire was heard in that section early Wednesday.

A 14-year-old schoolboy was killed, apparently by a stray bullet, in downtown Seoul. But no other violence was reported in the central part of the capital early Wednesday.

Truckloads of soldiers still rolling into Seoul were from the 15th ROK Division, released from the operational control of the U. N. Command at the request of the Defense Ministry.

On the political front, John M. Chang, Korea's lame-duck vice president, declared Rhee's government can appease the rebellious populace only by holding new elections.

Chang was elected vice president in 1956, although he ran on the ticket of the opposition Democrats. He was defeated for reelection by Rhee's running mate Lee Ki-poong last March 15. The Democrats charge the election was riddled with fraud and rough tactics by Rhee's ruling Liberals.

"The only reason the people are rebelling was the unfair election," said Chang.

Earlier Wednesday, U.S. Ambassador Walter P. McGonaghy personally urged Rhee to "take into account the basic causes and grievances" of the demonstrators.

The statement did not elaborate on the "causes and grievances," but obviously referred to election complaints which have caused a series of bitter protest demonstrations ever since mid-March.

In Washington, Secretary Herter spoke out publicly after calling in South Korea's ambassador, Dr. You Chan Yang, to express the "profound and growing concern" of this government.

Showing sympathy with the demonstrators, Herter called on President Rhee's government to take swift action to restore fundamental freedom in the jittery Asian republic.

"Ambassador Yang was informed that this government believes that the demonstrations in Korea are a reflection of popular dissatisfaction over the conduct of the recent election and repressive measures unsuited to a free democracy," the department said in a statement summarizing Herter's views.

Leaving Herter's office, Yang refused to acknowledge that his government was guilty of repressive measures.

"But when the policemen were shot at what could they do but return the firing?" Yang asked.

U.S. servicemen stationed in Seoul were confined to their posts. Two American civilians were among those hurt in melees between students and police.

new program calls for pay increases and improved housing for native workers, plus other employee benefits.

It also calls for construction of a new $750,000 water main to serve the City of Panama and a reduction in rates on water sold by the Panama Canal Co. to the cities of Panama and Colon.

The employee benefits proposals include a 10 per cent wage increase for semi-skilled and unskilled employees; an expansion of the apprentice program to train more workers, and a review of jobs reserved for American citizens with a view toward placing more Panamanians in skilled and supervisory positions.

Teachers in the Latin American schools in the Canal Zone also will get a 10 per cent pay increase under the program which President Eisenhower ordered into effect immediately.

Other features include replac-air for parents to protest the lack of support by the school board.

Some 300 parents gathered in the high school cafeteria to await the decision of the school board and the teachers.

A motorcade of parents was organized to lodge protests with the school board.

Finally, about 2:30 p.m., the elder Cornelius and Principal Martin issued a joint statement. It read:

"We regret the situation going as far as it did. We have come to the joint agreement that our problem has been worked out satisfactorily, that complete cooperation has been resumed and all charges withdrawn."

Cornelius had alleged that his son was struck by the school officials "30 times with a board."

Shortly after the statement was issued, the county school board agreed to support the teachers "in maintenance of school discipline and the school program."

All the teachers, including nine men, agreed to return to work Wednesday.

Principal Martin said the matter was closed.

The teacher who administered one of the paddlings, Mrs. Dwight Maples, has been granted a maternity leave of absence by the board. But the board made it clear that she could withdraw her request for the leave if she wished.

Martin administered the other paddling.

"Paddlings aren't prevalent at Hahira," Martin said Tuesday. "But they are sometimes necessary. And when they are, we give them."

"This was the first paddling that she (Mrs. Maples) had given this year."

Martin said he had no plans to change the methods of discipline at the school.

Oil Bids Opened; Action Deferred

territory running the entire 100-mile length of the Georgia coastline from the low water mark to a width of three miles—an estimated 238,120 acres. The bid was accompanied by a certified check for $50,000 and included a stipulation that the money should be regarded as a bonus plus advance rental payment for the first year of the lease if one should be awarded.

Under state law provisions for 10-cents-per-acre rental for the first year of any lease, the rental would amount to $23,812, leaving a net bonus to the state of $26,188.

2 YIELD STATE AWARD

Hunt Oil Co. included a certified check for $25,150 with its bid. Tom Hunt, a company executive present for the opening of bids, said that amount represents a clear bonus to the state over and above the statutory provision for rental payment.

Both Hunt and Pure offered to relinquish a $250,000 state bonus offered to the first person or firm who brings in a successful oil well in Georgia. Hunt waived the bonus and Pure agreed to contribute one-half of the bonus, if it should win it, to Milledgeville State Hospital and one-half to Eugene Talmadge Memorial Hospital in Augusta.

Stamey, unlike Pure and Hunt, did not bid for the entire area up for leasing. Nor did he offer a cash bonus to the state for a lease. He said his group already has some 200,000 inland acres under lease from private owners in south Georgia and that he was asking only for rights to drill in state waterways in the vicinity of lands already under lease. He said his bid covers some 5,000 acres of offshore territory plus approximately 23,000 acres of state-held inland territory.

AWAIT VANDIVER RETURN

Bids were opened precisely at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the office of Secretary of State Ben Fortson Jr., secretary of the commission. All members of the commission, except Gov. Vandiver, were present. They included Fortson, Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook and Capt. Garland Peyton, director of the State Department of Mines, Mining and Geology.

As he ripped the envelopes open one by one, Fortson informed newsmen and a large gathering of oil company representatives as to the identity of the bidders. Then Geer, on a motion by Atty. Gen. Cook, directed that copies of all three bids be mimeographed and distributed to newsmen.

Capt. Peyton suggested that representatives of bidding companies be allowed to explain their bids orally, but Geer squelched the suggestion saying that the commission wasn't going to do anything until Vandiver got back to his office. It could meet again then and hear explanations if any were needed, he indicated.

Geer later asked for and got a motion that all action on the bids be postponed until Vandiver's return. It passed.

Cook suggested that he and his assistants be authorized to check into the legal aspects of oil leasing in Texas and Louisiana as they might apply to Georgia. The commission gave its sanction.

In its bid, Hunt Oil Co. offered its cash bonus for a lease, modeled on Alabama and Louisiana state lease forms, which would provide for the drilling of 10 wells and for release to the state of certain undeveloped acreage, even if the lease is producing, if continuous drilling and reworking is not carried on after the primary term of the lease, subject to the provisions of the lease.

U.S. Brands Castro a Dictator larity" between U.S. policy and that of Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini, the German and Italian dictators, and Generalissimo Franco of Spain.

The State department made no reference to Franco, but it tossed back at Castro the Hitler-Mussolini allegations. It bluntly rejected any suggestion that U.S. policy resembled fascism, saying this country opposes dictatorship of either right or left.

The department dismissed Castro's charges as the kind of "baseless remarks which the Cuban Prime Minister makes from time to time for reasons best known to himself."

"The entire world knows that the United States fought a war against Hitler and Mussolini in order to preserve democracy," it said.

"The United States considers international communism a real and present threat to democracy and hopes that Dr. Castro himself and the Cuban people will come to realize what a danger this subversive movement poses to free men everywhere."

The U.S. reply was the sharpest yet made to the series of attacks directed against this country by Castro and his aides, and marked a low point in U.S.-Cuban relations.

Castro's most recent blast was especially puzzling in view of a remark attributed to him last Sunday. He was quoted as saying that he believed U.S.-Cuban relations would improve if he could confer with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Herter.

Neither the President nor Herter would be likely to sit down with him in light of his attacks.

Stops Constipation Due to "Aging Colon"

New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials for normal regularity.

As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon wall also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrunken that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge. Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulks and moisteners may create gas, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs cramp and gripe the entire system. Of all laxatives, only new COLONOID gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).

(1) COLONOID moisturizes dry, hardened waste for easy passage without pain or strain. (2) COLONOID's unequalled rebulking action helps re-tone flabby colon muscles. (3) And COLONOID acts gently, on the nerve reflexes that stimulate the vital "mass movement" of your lower colon.

COLONOID relieves even chronic constipation overnight; is so gentle it was hospital proved safe even for expectant mothers. And COLONOID won't interfere with absorption of vitamins or other food nutrients. Get COLONOID today! Introductory size 43¢.

Scouting TV Tonight

Lovely Maria Schell Turning Tough Girl To Play Red Boss in Fun-Filled 'Ninotchka'

BEST BET—"Ninotchka" is a bit dated by now, but there are still some laughs left in the old gal yet.

Special Tonight is doing it, and they've had the good sense to cast Maria Schell in the role of the tough Russian commissar who is softened by Paris, a silly hat and a handsome young capitalist.

Miss Schell is known to American audiences primarily for her fine hand with heavy dramatics, but she's done many comedies on the German stage.

And she can look both parts—the completely serious commissar, who initially is only concerned with things like the sewers, and the love-smitten beauty who comes to appreciate the finer things in life, like champagne and a beautiful gown.

Gig Young is the man who weaves the magic, with Zsa Zsa Gabor as the other woman, and a fine cast of associate Russians (Mischa Auer, Leon Belasco and Henry Lascoe) as the trio of envoys who live it up in Paris.

Although much of the humor is directed at a subject which isn't particularly funny any more, it is done with such a gay spirit that it may still evoke a few chuckles. 8:30-10 (Ch. 11).

7:30-8:30 (Ch. 2)—You'll meet a pack of the most vicious sadists west of the Pecos on Wagon Train Wednesday night.

Flint McCullough is shanghaied, without a boat in sight.

TWO BEAUTIES CLASH IN "NINOTCHKA"

Zsa Zsa Gabor (L), Maria Schell in TV Comedy

to join a gang digging a railroad tunnel under a mountain. His captors keep the crew in a side tunnel, feed them swill, beat them, chain them and otherwise make their lives unpleasant.

The object is for Flint to get out, or Major Adams to get in, which ever comes first.

The actor who plays the part of Tom Duncan, the old prisoner, is Francis McDonald, who's been working steadily since 1912. He was married to the late Mae Bush.

7:30-8:30 (Ch. 11)—Music For a Spring Night, doing a show called "To Boston, With Love," has some interesting firsts Wednesday night.

For one thing, famed ballet star Igor Youskevitch will be making his TV debut. For another, Earl Wild, in playing Liszt's "Hungarian Fantasy," will include several unpublished cadenzas, hitherto not played on radio or TV.

Another note is that, in this year marking the 150th anniversary of Chopin's birth, the orchestra will play his E-Flat Nocturne, with cellist George Ricci taking the solo part. Arthur Fiedler will conduct, choosing a program much like that he favors in his own Boston Pops concerts.

9-10 (Ch. 2)—The last Bob Hope Show of the season will be basically like all the others—a fast Hope monologue, followed by a series of skits and musical numbers.

Among the skits: Hope is a fat comic (he keeps bread in his golf bag, bologna in the lamp base, etc.) with Joan Caulfield assisting; Hope as a psychiatrist with Jim Garner the patient who is asked to choose between Joi Lansing in a bathing suit and a horse; Hope as a singer, with Patti Page joining him for a duet.

10 (Ch. 11)—Tonight's championship fight on Wednesday Night Fights could be one of the best of the season. Champion Gene Fullmer and challenger Joey Giardello will be battling for the middleweight crown in a 15-rounder.

10-11 (Ch. 5)—The U.S. Steel Hour's play, "The Girl Who Knew Too Much," is an expanded Alcoa Presents, in essence.

The story, supposedly taken from a true investigation in New York around the turn of the century, concerns a girl (Mona Freeman) who claims to be in touch with the spirits.

Two men—a reporter and a psychic researcher—enter her life and complicate the issue.

At the end, we are led to believe that, instead of having one supernatural ability, she actually has another.

"In Hollywood, Glynn Wolfe, who has been married 12 times, enters ministry, will build church and dedicate his time to marriage counseling."—News item.

The expert is a fellow who... Is skilled at giving you advice... Someone who tells you what to do... But charges a terrific price... Who shows you how to organize... And cut expenses to the bone... But is a failure when he tries... To run a business of his own.

He tells you how YOURS should be run... What you should do to make it pay... And, possibly, that can be done... By someone in a business-way... You're dealing with finances then... Almost exclusively and not... With people, money, women, men... All mixed together in one lot.

At times, most couples disagree... But they need little help from you... And they'll get none at all from me... And both of us know this is true... Whoever tries to arbitrate... To make the peace, or intervene... Does nothing more than complicate... And add confusion to the scene.

So far as Mister Wolfe's concerned... We do not think that we would get... Much help from one who hasn't learned... Enough to run his business yet.

Let's Get Rid of the Evil Of Foul Matter in the Mail

QUESTION: I found some pornographic literature in my boy's room, and when I questioned him about it he said he received it in the mail. Is it legal to send such filth by mail, and who would be so low as to circulate such materials among children?—G. R.

ANSWER: Yes, there are people low enough to do anything for a fast dollar. The Bible says, "The love of money is the root of all evil." And lots of people love money much better than they do our children.

There is a growing epidemic of pornography in America, and I am glad you are interested in stamping it out. Authorities are concerned about it, too, but they say most parents are not interested in doing much about it.

The truth of the matter is, we have all but lost the will to fight evil in any form in our society. Most of us would rather conform to wrong than to fight it. This is a sign of spiritual and moral decadence. It could be the handwriting on the wall that we are "weighed in the balances and found wanting." Historians have observed that when a society becomes indifferent to sin judgment is just around the corner.

Postmaster General Sumnerfield is deeply disturbed about this situation—so write your postmaster and inform him of this situation. He will do what he can to help.

Church Adds 5 Grades to Day School

Peace Lutheran Church will teach five elementary grades in addition to its present kindergarten next fall, the Rev. Larry G. Misner, pastor, announced.

The Rev. Mr. Misner said one grade will be added later to give the Christian day school a total of seven grades.

The day school will be held in church facilities at 1679 Columbia Dr., Decatur.

Edwin G. Tenne, currently principal and youth director at St. John's Lutheran Church in Milwaukee, will be the principal and minister of education at Peace Lutheran Church.

Tenne, married and the father of two children, is a graduate of River Forest (Ill.) College.

Pope Predicts Council Success

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII said Tuesday the Ecumenical Council will make a great contribution to world peace.

He made the prediction during a special audience to members of the Pax Christi—peace of Christ—movement headed by Maurice Cardinal Felin, archbishop of Paris.

The council will attract hundreds of bishops and archbishops to Rome from all over the world. It will be held in about two years.

Missionaries in Haiti

OTTAWA (AP)—About 400 protestant and Roman Catholic missionaries from Canada are playing a big role in the religious, educational and cultural life of Haiti, says Fulgence Charpentier, charge d'affaires at the Canadian Embassy in Port au Prince.

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

There is a big chance to reduce those big ideas and plans which you had worked out yesterday, or before, to a really workable expression.

Aries (March 21 to April 19). An influential though meticulous higher-up will give you excellent advice and support today if you make it a point to be within his, or her orbit. Taurus (April 20 to May 20). An ideal day to be with a clever friend looking onto some new enterprise which can mean greater success for you both. Be very observant. Gemini (May 21 to June 21). Consult an authority on credit affairs or any perplexing problems you may have. P.M. entertain higher-ups.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21). Do as much research as you can, since you are filled with inspiring ideas. Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21). Every opportunity is yours now to consult with a clever co-worker or authority in practical lines. Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22). Intimate tête-à-têtes with partners during day hours reveal best way to cement better relations and make the future more profitable and happy.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22). Important you please close ties today by doing all the work that is required and adding the artistic and inventive touches at which you are so adept. Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21). It will be possible today to have a good time, but it is imperative you first complete any labors connected with interesting new outlets efficiently. Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21). Impress others with your ability and acumen. Be generous.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20). Be clever in finding just the very things you need to buy at a good price. Evening should then be spent having a good time with long-time and compatible friends. Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19). Spend a good part of this day conferring with experts in monetary and career matters. Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20). Here is an ideal day to show appreciation to associates and good friends.

Chemist Offers More Effective Headache Relief

SALISBURY, N.C.—"When a headache or sore, aching muscles are making you miserable, you not only want fast relief, but also the most effective and complete relief you can possibly get," says Gilbert M. Cramer, pharmaceutical chemist specializing in pain relievers.

"That's why you need Stanback, the modern pain-reliever with synergistic action—G. M. Cramer the medical term for the combined action of several ingredients in one easy-to-take dose. "Stanback's combined synergistic action gives you more complete relief than any single ingredient possibly could—and total pain-relieving effect greater than that of all the separate ingredients if not combined."

For your health's sake, insist on genuine Stanback—powders or tablets—and forget your headache or sore, aching muscles. Snap back with Stanback.

CONSENT

"Advise and Consent" is the unforgettable and provocative story of high level policy and politics, of men and women whose actions shape our nation's future. The real hero of Allen Drury's gripping novel is the U. S. Senate and he's made out a "resounding case" for it. Now in its 37th week on the nation's best-seller lists, "Advise and Consent" will continue daily, except Saturday, exclusively in Georgia, in The Atlanta Journal. Don't miss it.

Cook Offers Help To Fight Sitdowns

Atlanta, Savannah Preferred Legal Aid to Defend New Law

Atty. Gen. Cook said Tuesday his office would help local officials in Atlanta and Savannah defend Georgia's new law designed to curb Negro sitdown demonstrations.

Negro attorneys have announced they will fight an unconstitutional act that gives a business owner the right to order anyone to leave his establishment. They said it is unconstitutional because its enforcement is "based on race or color."

Cook said his department will aid Chatham Sol. Gen. Andrew J. Ryan in the cases of 25 Negro sitdown demonstrators to be heard early next month in Savannah City Court.

The attorney general also said his office will collaborate with Fulton County Attorney Harold Sheats in his fight against the appeal of a 16-year-old Negro sitdowner who was ordered to his home in Birmingham and put on a year's probation by Fulton Juvenile Judge W. W. Woolfolk.

MEASLES, TOO

Dog Bite? It's All In Census

Census takers have had the "full course" counting heads in Georgia's Second Congressional District this year.

James L. Goode, area field supervisor for the second district, which takes in a large chunk of southwest Georgia, says his workers have encountered all sorts of situations during their census taking duties.

"One woman refused to talk to an enumerator," Goode said, "and when we telephoned her from the office, she said she had two cases of measles among the children and another one suffering from a head injury."

Goode said he thought the woman had good grounds for not being bothered at the time.

He said that that he estimates that census takers have refusals of less than one out of every 5,000 persons counted.

One of Goode's workers has been bitten by a dog, and another stumbled on a doorstep and bruised her knee.

Then there have been amusing moments, too.

A Negro woman told a census taker that she could not remember her age.

"I can't remember exactly, but everytime I have a birthday I crawl up under the house and make a mark on the chimney. Do you want me to go and count them?" she asked.

The enumerator nodded yes.

A Negro woman was giving birth to a new child just as an enumerator visited her house was quite upset because the newest member of the family couldn't be counted in the U.S. census until 1970.

On "M" night, when census visited jails, hotels, motels and other spots where transients live, an enumerator visited a lone inmate at the jail in Newton.

The census taker had to break out a boat and row to the jail which was marooned by the recent south Georgia floods to get his nose count.

State Population Of 4,132,800 Seen by Census

Georgia's population was estimated Tuesday at about 4,132,800.

Thomas W. McWhirter, regional director of the U.S. Bureau of the Census, said the figure was based on trends reported by 3,800 enumerators in Georgia. The count is almost finished.

If the estimate proves correct, it means that Georgia has gained about 12 or 13 per cent in population during the past decade—about 4 per cent less than the national average, McWhirter said.

Less industrial growth and poor farm conditions are blamed for the slower rate of gain.

Georgia's population in 1950 was counted at 3,444,000, he said.

6 Dead, Driver Pleads Guilty

CAMDEN, Ala. (AP)—David Jackson, teen-aged driver of a school bus in which six children died in a collision with a train, has pleaded guilty to second-degree manslaughter.

Jackson, 18, was put on probation for 12 months. A $500 fine was suspended. The bus-train accident occurred March 22 at Coy, Alabama.

Park Flowers Explode Into Riot of Color

Atlanta's downtown parks are at peak bloom and are a riot of color, parks manager George Simons said Tuesday.

Simons said Hurt Park, with its tulips banked in front of multi-colored azalea blooms, is probably the most beautiful spot in the Atlanta area. However, both Plaza Park, at Whitehall and Peachtree streets, and Mayor's Park at Peachtree street and Forrest avenue also add much to downtown beauty.

The department planted 40,000 new tulip bulbs last fall for the spring festival of beauty, and these push the total number in the parks to more than 75,000 plants.

Fight Hunger to Fight Reds, Laubach Urges

By BETSY FANCHER

As your eyes are being opened, so does Christ open the eyes of the blind, and heal the sick and the lame, explains Dr. Frank Laubach to African natives just learning to read.

The Congregational missionary-at-large, whose "Each One Teach One" program is now teaching illiterates to read at the rate of 10 million a year, believes that illiteracy is the key to hunger, and hunger is "the chaos which breeds communism."

In an interview here Tuesday, he predicted that communism would take over Asia and Africa within 10 years unless "America raises an Army of compassion to sweep the world."

URGES DEDICATED GROUP The man who has translated the story of Christ into 82 languages believes that it is "the compassion, rather than the divinity of Christ" which wins people.

He also believes that the compassion of a dedicated army of U.S. teachers, writers and agricultural experts can win the countries of Asia, Africa and Latin America which are being lost to communism.

"Communism seizes chaos and misery," he said, pointing out that communism's conquests, from Soviet Russia to Cuba, have been the result of hunger and illiteracy.

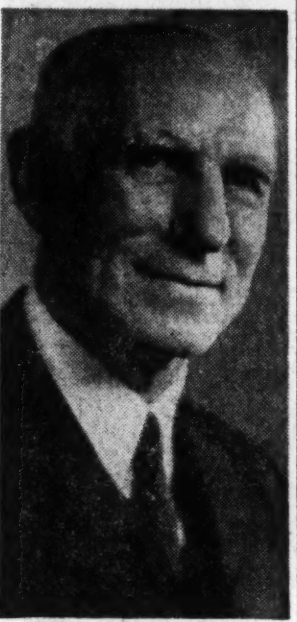

Dr. Laubach envisions an Army of Compassion, steered with technical and agricultural know-how and undergirded by the "Company of 100," a program in which U.S. churchgoers contributed a dollar a week to support their own ambassador of compassion.

SPEAKS TONIGHT

The 78-year-old "Apostle to the Illiterates" will challenge Atlantans with the "Company of 100" program at a Wednesday night service at Glenn Memorial Methodist Church. He will also speak at the Council of Communications Thursday at The Protestant Radio and Television Center.

FBI and GBI Canvass Doerun In Hunt for Bank Bandit Clues

Constitution State News Service DOERUN—A swarm of FBI and GBI agents, state troopers and deputy sheriffs canvassed this 1,000-population town Tuesday for someone who may have seen the automobile used by the disguised gunman who robbed a private bank here of $25,714 Monday.

A search also was on throughout southeast Georgia for a man who might still have traces of some black coloring on his hands and face, used when he disguised himself as a Negro when he robbed the Toney Brothers Bank.

The lone gunman was described as "sloppily" dressed, between 40 and 45, about 5 feet 9 or 10 inches tall and weighing 150 or 160 pounds.

He entered the private bank facing the town's main street shortly before 3 p.m. Monday, locked two women employees in the vault after cleaning it of cash and escaped.

Doerun, in Colquitt County, is about 10 miles northwest of Moultrie and 20 miles southeast of Albany.

Ike Offers His Papers to U.S.

By a Staff Writer

AUGUSTA — President Eisenhower has offered to the U.S. government the personal papers he has acquired during his two terms in the White House.

At the same time the Eisenhower Presidential Library Commission of the State of Kansas has offered to present the government a $3,000,000 library under construction at Abilene to house the historic collection.

The library is scheduled for completing in Eisenhower's home town next Jan. 20, 1961, the day he leaves office.

Conditions of the offer are that the United States maintain and operate the library as a repository for the Eisenhower documents.

Apparently this will be an arrangement similar to the operation of the library at Hyde Park, N.Y., repository for papers of the late President Roosevelt, and the library at Independence, Mo., where former President Truman's papers are collected.

In 20 Minutes You're a Voter

By BARBARA BRIGHT

Exercising the Constitution-given right to vote poses a problem for women (and men) who forego the privilege and duty simply because they don't know where, how, and when to register.

For residents of Fulton County, pulling the levers on a voting machine must be preceded by a trip to Room 56 of the Fulton County Courthouse, 136 Pryor St., SW. Residents of other counties in Georgia must register at their respective courthouses.

There's a time limit, however, on when to register. Just like Christmas shopping, it's best to do it early and avoid the rush. Deadline for registration for the general election is May 7.

The procedure, if carried out before the deadline rears its menacing head, is simple and requires about 20 minutes.

If you are a U.S. citizen over 18 years of age (or you will be 18 by the date of the general election, Nov. 8), you have lived in Georgia one year, and in your county for six months, then you have satisfied the preliminary qualifications for voting.

First, the registrar or deputy registrar checks the files of registered voters for the last general and primary election.

Young Howell, Fulton County registrar, points out that some misunderstand the registration act and believe registration is required every two years. If you voted in the general or primary election two years ago, you are still registered.

"But you have to vote once every two years to keep your registration valid," he emphasized. He added that if you have changed your county of residence since your prior registration you can simply request a registration transfer from the county in which you voted in the last election.

After 70 Women Have Freedoms

PALMA DE MALLOCA, Spain (WNS)—Women over 70 have organized a Joys of Age Society to sponsor and appreciate the happiness of advanced life.

"We're advancing, not falling apart," said Ruth Kelso, 72, formerly of Rye, N.Y., and New Hope, Pa. "Europe is full of American women over 70 who are on their own, raring to go and having exciting adventures."

Mrs. Kelso, a grandmother who is making a specialty of visiting the famed islands of the world, insists that ladies over 70 are freer than anybody and lists among these freedoms:

1. Freedom from your children and their children. "You can love them without hovering over them."
2. Freedom from the cares of a home. "You've given years to all of that, and now you're ready for new enjoyments in living."
3. Freedom from possessions. "When you give your silver and your jewels to your children, you never have to shine them again."
4. Freedom from worrying about your looks. "You're past wondering if you look young enough, and you can eat without dieting."
5. Freedom from punishing your figure into a reasonable facsimile of Marilyn Monroe's. "Nobody's ever proved that Marilyn's happier than Elsa Maxwell."
6. Freedom to wear sensible clothes. "No more high heels that torture or short, tight skirts that are such a problem."
7. Freedom from fashion dictators. "You learn what looks good on you, and you wear it year after year with great happiness."
8. Freedom to talk to any man you see, young or old. "Nobody will take offense or think anything wrong."
9. Freedom from trying to coax another man into your life. "You're free to enjoy yourself for a change, and it's wonderful!"

As soon as their announcement tea was over on Saturday, Mary Martin Davis and her fiance, Dr. Edward G. Bowen, were besieged for dates for other parties.

On Saturday, Mrs. J. H. Byram, her daughter, Mrs. Beverly Shires, and Mrs. H. P. McDonald will give a luncheon for the bride-elect at the Capital City Club, and on April 29, Mary Scott will gather the girls who went to Europe with Mary Martin two years ago for an evening coke party at her Decatur home. April 30 is the date chosen by Mrs. Edward Ravenal and Mrs. H. F. Higgins of Decatur for a tea at Franklin Simon's.

On May 7, Mrs. Joe Low, Mrs. O. F. McDonald and her daughter, Peggy, will give a tea, and Mrs. Willis E. Binford has planned a morning coffee for May 14. Another tea is set for May 22, with Mrs. James P. Scott and her daughter, Mary, as hostesses.

Mrs. Robert Rawiszer's Peachtree House apartment will be the scene of a morning coffee honoring Mary Martin on June 10, and on June 16, Mrs. Julius Scott will give a luncheon. Mrs. Byron Brooke and her daughter, Mrs. James Milner of Rome, have chosen June 18 for their luncheon at the East Lake Club, and on June 28, Mrs. George Cotsakis has planned a luncheon and swimming party at the Ansley Golf Club.

Mrs. Frank Nichols and her daughter, Virginia, will give the bridesmaids' luncheon at the Druid Hills Golf Club on June 29, and on the day of the wedding, June 30, Mary Martin's aunts, Misses Lena and Tommie Martin of LaGrange, will give a luncheon at the East Lake Club for the guests from a distance.

MRS. BERNARD L. SHACKLEFORD has returned from a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Shackleford Cheves, and

Miss Ruth McMillan Named Chairman of Art Committee

Miss Ruth McMillan has been elected chairman of the Women's Committee of the Atlanta Art Assn. for the 1960-61 season.

Other officers presented on the slate by Mrs. Clifford Ragsdale, chairman of the nominating committee, were all elected by the 300-member group. They are Mrs. John L. Appleby, executive vice chairman, and Mrs. Chester Martin, Mrs. Vincent Dobbs and Mrs. Thornton Kennedy, vice chairmen.

Mrs. Baxter Jones is the new recording secretary; Mrs. Harry Wilson, treasurer. Chairmen of the various committees of the organization will be announced later.

The women's committee is the group responsible for carrying on the majority of the activities at the association. Among them are raising funds for the support of large exhibits, overseeing memberships, arranging the monthly art displays, operating the Coach House and its antique shop and maintaining the art library.

Sports Illustrated Names Winners of Design Awards

NEW YORK—Winners of the 1960 Sports Illustrated Design Awards are Helen and Jack Lazar of Kimberly Knitwear fame, and Anne Fogarty.

The Lazars take the Sporting Look Award for more than a decade of distinctive and continuous contribution in the women's sportswear field. Mrs. Fogarty, whose first sportswear collection appeared only a year ago, receives the Designer of the Year title. The winners were selected by an electorate of some 600 fashion authorities across the country, from a panel of nominees chosen by executives of the nation's finest stores.

CLASSIC LINES

Working under the label of Kimberly, Helen and Jack Lazar are now internationally famous for their chic knitted suits which combine classic lines, interesting textures and colors. Their impact on the knitwear industry goes back to 1947 when they created one-piece ensembles which brought knitwear into the cocktail hour for the first time. Of primary interest to them has been the search for travel costumes that would never wrinkle or sag.

The Lazars proved that knitwear could be sensationally successful by following fashion's vagaries—and their sacks and trapezes were snapped up by women everywhere. But the capriciousness of extreme styling left the Lazars discontented, and they began to evolve their present format of elegance of line, which stands up year after year, varied with color, texture, and pattern.

SPORTSWEAR FIELD

A year ago Anne Fogarty had not yet invaded the sportswear design field. She had created a revolution in the styling of small-size dresses 11 years ago, climbed to fame on her paper-doll silhouette, and through the years kept her distinctive place designing very young-hearted and feminine clothes.

Her basic contribution to fashion design has been "feminizing" it—and this is her special strife in sportswear. While she achieved this effect in her dresses by stripping them of ruffles and geegaws and concentrating on a small-waisted, full-skirted shape, she turned the trick in her sportswear by adding ruffles and tucks and other coquettish touches. Her bikinis are ruffled baby pants, her shorts and slacks and man-shirts are lace-edged, her denims have candy-colored stripes, her cover-alls are embroidered with pink carnations.

Displays Odd Tin Cans

BUFFALO (WNS)—Mrs. Joan E. Faller of Tonawanda, N.Y., displays her odd tin cans in an art gallery. Fifty of her unusual tin can pictures are on view at the Coffee Encores Gallery here.

Mrs. Faller, the mother of three youngsters, began her art work when she discovered that tin cans had "personalities"—their interiors were different colors. Using a metal cutter, she snips out pieces of the tin cans and nails them with small finishing nails to pieces of wood stained with shoe polish or wax.

AVONDALE ESTATES HOME BUILT OF KIMBALL HOUSE BRICK
Residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Bowen On Tour Today

Atlanta Primes for Dress Parade Of Avondale Estates Tour of Homes

By YOLANDE GWIN

A part of old Atlanta is all primed for a 1960 "dress parade" Wednesday, April 20, when the annual tour of homes takes place in the Avondale Estates area.

The Southern Colonial home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Bowen on Wiltshire drive in Avondale Estates is built of old brick which once was part of the Kimball House. This brick also was used for a corner fireplace in the family room.

"We just moved into our home last December," said Mrs. Bowen. "We wanted a Colonial home with white columns and when we heard that brick from the Kimball House was available we decided it would be of interest to use it. We are just about settled except for the bomb shelter. Oh, yes, it's all right in case of a bomb, but we haven't furnished it just like we want it, but the essentials are there."

The home is completely carpeted in antique white. Crystal chandeliers in the foyer and in the dining room are among the very few lighting fixtures visible in the home. Invisible ceiling lights and valance and portrait lighting make the home glow from within.

Members of the Avon Garden Club of Avondale Estates are sponsoring the tour between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. when six of the most unusual homes in the section will be open. Tickets may be obtained at the doors.

Another link with Atlanta's past may be found in the stately home of Mr. and Mrs. E. William Nash at 3 Berkeley Rd. Among the furnishings is a mahogany sideboard which belonged to the late Mr. and Mrs. George Troop Hurt, who married in Atlanta in 1851. Their home is the one pictured in the Cyclorama—the Battle of Atlanta. The Hurts are the great-grandparents of Mrs. Nash.

Other parts of the home feature the Oriental theme, an outstanding item being an original George Beattie water color.

German copper is used with charm and taste in the brick and stone home of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Strauss at 15 Lakeshore Dr. The couple, both of whom served with the American Army in Germany, have used a great deal of pink in the home, which is furnished with Early American pieces.

The old brick home of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Forkner on Wynn drive, is a split level model. An interesting feature is the large paneled kitchen with its many windows draped in turquoise. There is a crab apple orchard fireplace wall in the adjoining living room.

Mrs. James E. Stokes will open her Roman brick ranch-type home on Wiltshire drive.

A sunken combination living and dining room opens from a front entrance of tile. Connecting are the bedrooms of the five Stokes children and at a lower level is the den and trophy room.

An old brick home combining contemporary with Early American flavor describes the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coe Hamling at 3197 Wiltshire Dr. The kitchen is paneled in teakwood and it adjoins a family room with a maple decorative motif. Traditional furnishings are used throughout.

Ulcers Could Date Back To Childhood

CHICAGO, Ill. (WNS)—A team of scientists at the University of Chicago Medical School reported ulcers could date back to your childhood.

Ulcers in young children are not apparent, at puberty. Then they produce the same symptoms as ulcers in adults.

Drs. Alberto Ramirez Ramos, Joseph B. Kirsner and Walter L. Palmer wrote in the Journal of Diseases of Children that chronic peptic ulcer is more common in boys than in girls.

They said most children's ulcers are duodenal and that peptic ulcers are more often chronic than acute, making it possible for them to go undetected for a long time.

In one group of 1,000 adults with duodenal ulcers, 26 had symptoms dating back to the time when they were 4 years old. In another group of 1,000 adult gastric ulcers, 16 had symptoms as children.

WORMS
AND NOT KNOW IT!
Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms or Round Worms. . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims. Kill Worms quickly and easily. To get rid of Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the intestines where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's tablets do . . . and here's how they do it: First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredients go right to work—kill Worms quickly and easily. Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms or Round Worms, ask your druggist for Jayne's P-W or R-W . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son and their successors, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

FOOD AND YOU

Food You Eat Makes Sense or Nonsense

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Stare is a member of the Department of Nutrition, School of Public Health, Harvard University. His column will appear regularly in the Women's Section of the Atlanta Constitution.

A lot of nonsense has been fed to the public in recent years by food faddists in the name of good health. The value of black-strap molasses, kelp, dried alfalfa, honey, vinegar and the like have been promoted as the key to long life, perfect health and eternal youth.

Much of this is nonsense—harmless up to a point, but nonsense nonetheless.

If there is any "magic formula" to healthful eating, it lies in a knowledge of the importance of variety. Harvard's Department of Nutrition has designed what is called "The Basic Four" to help insure variety in a balanced nutrition. These four basic food groups are needed daily by every person who wants to be healthy. And who doesn't?

Eating foods from the Basic Four every day can give you a wholesome, balanced menu that provides the nutritive value you need to be healthy. Ignoring the Basic Four and concentrating on individual foods promoted as cure-alls by the food faddists can lead to trouble. Good nutrition can still come from the corner grocery store or the big supermarket if you select your foods properly.

Here are the Basic Four food groups.

1. DAIRY PRODUCTS: First among these, of course, is milk. Most everyone should have some milk or milk products every day. Children could well have two to three glasses; teen-agers three or four; adults one or two; and pregnant and nursing mothers an extra glass or two. In general, cheese, ice cream and other milk-made foods—including yogurt, for that matter—can be substituted for some of the milk.

MEATS OR MEAT SUBSTITUTES. This includes meat as well as fish, poultry, eggs, cheese, dry beans, peas and nuts. Two or more servings should appear on your table daily. Again, teen-agers, pregnant women and nursing mothers should help themselves to more. Here is a good rule of thumb for your weekly requirements in the meat group:

Three to five eggs;
Meat, fish, poultry or cheese—four or five times;
Dried beans, peas, nuts or butter.

3. VEGETABLES AND FRUITS. Four servings or more from this group should be included every day, one of which should be a citrus fruit or other fruit or vegetable high in vitamin C. Have a dark-green or deep-yellow vegetable for vitamin A at least every other day.

4. BREADS AND CEREALS. Enriched or whole grain. Eat one of these four or more times a day.

That is the Basic Four. Whether you want to gain weight or lose it, you should be sure you include these foods in your menu plan each day.

ENDS DRY, OLD-LOOKING SKIN!

When you are young, your skin is blessed with an abundant supply of natural oils. As you grow older, your skin yields less of these oils; your skin becomes dry, old-looking. Now new DEW-O-GEN in Lanolin Plus Liquid puts back oils that nature can't replace . . . ends dry skin!

Lanolin Plus Liquid with DEW-O-GEN gives you round-the-clock moisturizing benefits.

As a night cream, use Lanolin Plus Liquid with DEW-O-GEN to cleanse off make-up and moisturize your skin all night.

As a make-up base, use Lanolin Plus Liquid with DEW-O-GEN in the morning and you'll have an all-day moisturizer.

Use Lanolin Plus Liquid with new DEW-O-GEN every day—and Lanolin Plus guarantees you'll never have dry skin again!

Cleaned Up The Gossip

JOPLIN, Mo. (WNS)—Officials of the telephone company searched for a youngster who has perfected a method of gaining access to a busy party line. A subscriber who complained that while she was on the phone talking to a friend, her phone began to roar, drowning her voice out. She then hung up. Later, when she picked up, heard two small boys talking. One said, "I sure got rid of those gossips by holding a vacuum cleaner up to the phone!"

CARPET QUESTIONS ANSWERED
Can I buy carpet and pay for it by the month as I use it? Yes. You can buy your carpet and pay for it exactly as you do your automobile or any other major expenditure. You can finance your carpet for as long as 36 months, with no down payment. This means that you can use and enjoy your wall-to-wall carpet installation as you pay for it. Tech Engineering Day Scheduled Saturday

Georgia Tech will hold its annual engineering day Saturday under the sponsorship of the St. Patrick's Council, student service organization.

Engineering, management, architectural and scientific displays will be open in the various schools from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. These displays, designed and constructed by Tech students, will represent the special interests of the various degree-granting schools.

The campus will be marked for the direction of visitors. Students will be on hand to explain the exhibits. Guided tours will be available, starting from the information desk of the administration building.

In conjunction with this annual event, 50 outstanding students from high schools throughout Georgia will be the special weekend guests of the St. Patrick's Council. They will be visiting Georgia Tech under the general sponsorship of the Georgia Society of Professional Engineers. The visitors will be the guests of the Atlanta chapter of the society at a dinner Friday evening.

'New Look' Looks Fine

Rube Walker strolled down the tunnel leading from the Cracker clubhouse to the field and officially joined the distinguished fraternity of Atlanta managers.

E. T. Peters was the first one way back yonder in 1902 and Bob Montag was the last of the old regime. There were many great ones through the years. You remember hearing about William Smith, who won the first of the record 16 Cracker pennants in 1907, Charley Frank, Bert Niehoff and Eddie Moore.

You remember seeing Paul Richards, Ki Ki Cuyler, Dixie Walker, Whit Wyatt and several others.

Walker, no relation to Dixie, was launching his 17th season in baseball. He was making his first appearance before the home folks, but he was no stranger. He'd played here as a Nashville Vol in 1947, and he'd made exhibition stops at Poncey with the Dodgers.

"No matter how many years you're in the game, you get a tingle on opening night," Walker said as he surveyed the filling stands.

Myrt Power, the renowned TV baseball expert and No. 1 Dodger fan, was on hand to wish Walker and the infant Crackers good luck. Rube chatted with Mrs. Power for a few minutes and general manager Jerry Waring arrived.

"We may be a few minutes late starting tonight," Waring said. "There's a line of fans coming in."

That was news indeed. In fact, it was the first time since opening night a year ago that spectators had encountered difficulty in reaching the box office.

As you glanced the Crackers dressed out in Dodger uniforms, you wondered if perhaps Mobile was in town. The players were sitting in the visitors' dugout. At least it was the visitors' dugout until Tuesday night.

Several years ago a Cracker manager, peeved because his men were sneaking into the tunnel to puff cigarettes, moved the Crackers to the dugout on the third base side.

The new fence was on display in center field and Jim Williams, who'll patrol the center pasture, was saying that he liked the idea. The wire barrier does add to the appearance of the park.

Waring had flags draped around the grandstand a la World Series. Park Superintendent Beans Hadley, who is doubling as a trainer, had the diamond sparkling for the premiere. There definitely was a new look at Poncey. Jasper Donaldson, starting his 27th season with the Crackers, is the lone connecting link in the front office between Earl Mann's regime and the Los Angeles parents.

Mann was missing from the scene, and you missed the man who produced 10 pennant teams.

—The Only Old Cracker Was a Rival

The only old Cracker on the field was wearing a Shreveport uniform. Catcher Jack Parks, a member of Whit Wyatt's 1954 dream team, was greeting old friends in front of the dugout. Parks spent three terms at Poncey, and he's back for an encore with Shreveport this season.

Manager Les Peden was saying that he has virtually the same cast back. "We've got a good team," Peden said. "They've got another year of experience. I think we'll do all right."

And the Sports had done all right in their first three games, blitzing Little Rock. They were undefeated before the Cracker battle.

Someone inquired about Bud Blenker, who was voted athlete of the year twice at Georgia Tech. Blenker is getting a cracker in double in his second season as a pro, and he'll pitch the second game of the set here Wednesday night.

"Blenker has looked fine," Peden said. "He's got a good curve, and he'll battle you out there. I found that out when I had him last year. I put him in a game in Sulphur Dell with the bases loaded."

It was almost time for the first pitch of the season, and opening day pitcher's name was drawn from ticket stubs. Miss Mary Evans was awarded the honor, joining such Poncey first nighters as Terry Moore, Susan Hayward and Wehrner von Braun.

Peden and Walker introduced their players at home plate. Miss Evans served up her pitch and the season was under way.

Ken Rowe, climbing the Dodger ladder from Macon to Atlanta, set down the Sports in order in the top half of the round.

But the young Crackers were disorderly in their half. They appeared eager for the crowd to meet them again, and everyone except Rowe appeared at the plate during the inning.

—Walker's Men Came Out Swinging

Walker had advertised the Crackers as a running team, and they were off and running from the bell Larry Burright outfooted a hot hopper to short for the first hit of the year. He promptly swiped second and buzzed to third when Williams hacked a hit in front of the plate.

At that juncture Mr. Parks demonstrated that he hasn't lost one of the finest tempers in baseball.

When Tim Harkness rapped a roller to first, Burright set sail for the plate. Jim McManus made an inaccurate peg but Parks had time to nail the runner. However, Burright crossed up Parks by darting across the plate, and Umpire Matt Pappas did the same by calling Burright safe.

Parks flipped his mask and his lid and the first rhubarb was in full swing. Parks was on the verge of being dismissed for the evening when Peden steered him away from the arbiter.

Jim Koranda banged into a double play when play was resumed, but the Crackers were still in an offensive mood. Doug Camilli, who hadted .700 in three games in Chattanooga, added a home run to his extra base total of two triples and a double. It was a solid shot far over the 350 mark in left. Bud Black tried his luck again with a serve to Bill Lajoie. It hadn't improved, for Lajoie whaled a homer in his very first swing as a Cracker, a drive into the right field signs.

Thus, the Crackers were sitting on a 4-0 cushion when Black eventually retired the side. Mr. Waring, who had been counting the crowd, looked at the scoreboard where Los Angeles' 4-0 success over San Francisco was posted. "We got as many runs in the first inning as the Dodgers did in nine," Waring remarked.

However, what promised to be a rout at the outset then developed into a corking duel between Black and Rowe. The Sports struck for two runs in the fourth, and it was 4-2 turning into the stretch frames.

The score changed but the margin remained the same. Rowe packaged a five-hitter to achieve his first triumph, 6-4, and the Crackers are in first place. The 7,601 first nighters are filing out of Poncey, and they're saying that the "new look" looks fine.

In Dismal Detroit Debut

CLEVELAND (AP)—A two-run single by Al Kaline in the 15th inning gave the Detroit Tigers a 4-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians before an opening day crowd of 52,756 at Municipal Stadium Tuesday.

The loser was Jim Grant, the third of five Indian pitchers, who left with two men on base and one out in the 15th after pitching 3 1/2 innings in relief. The winner was Pete Burnside, the third Detroit pitcher, who hurled the last four innings.

The crowd was the largest for a season's opener here since 1953. Most of the fans still were in the stands at the end of the game, which went 4 hours and 54 minutes.

Kaline's game-winning single off Bob Tiefenauer was his only hit of the game. Burnside walked to open the 15th, held as Eddie Yost fled out and moved to third when Red Wilson doubled. Grant was replaced by Johnny Klippstein, who walked the first batter he faced and was lifted. Kaline then hit Tiefenauer's second pitch scoring Burnside and Wilson. Rocky Colavito hit into a double-play to retire the side.

The teams battled to a scoreless tie until the 11th inning when a single by pinch hitter Neil Crisley produced two runs for the Tigers. His poke to right field was off reliever Bob Grim, who replaced starter Gary Bell with the bases loaded and one out.

Colavito, sent to the Tigers Sunday from the Indians in exchange for Harvey Kuenn in a trade that brought a storm of protest from many Cleveland fans, had a bad day at the plate. The home run slugger struck out four times, walked once, was out on a fly to left field and hit into a doubleplay in seven appearances.

Minoso Clouts 2, Chisox Beat A's 10-9

CHICAGO (AP)—After hitting a grand-slam homer in the fourth, Minnie Minoso belted a leadoff homer in the ninth to break a tie and give the American League champion Chicago White Sox a 10-9 opening-day victory over the Kansas City A's.

A record Comiskey Park opening day crowd of 41,661 saw the wide open curtain-raiser in which the White Sox blew an early 9-2 lead and then had their sixth pitcher, Ray Moore, save the game with one pitch in the ninth inning with the bases loaded.

The jittery A's yielded five unearned runs in the first two innings and then ex-Cleveland outfielder Minoso celebrated his return to the White Sox with his base-clearing wallop over the 415-center field mark in the fourth inning.

Minoso's decisive homer in the ninth as the A's scored two runs to tie the score at 9-9 was a

7,601 See Win Over Sports
To Gain Tie for Loop Lead

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Atlanta's new-look Crackers won themselves 7,601 new admirers Tuesday night as they showed off like so many kids walking a picket fence to impress their girls in handing Shreveport's Sports their first loss of the season, 6-4.

That's how it was as Rube Walker's youthful Los Angeles Dodger farm-hands strutted their stuff in the 1960 Southern Assn. inaugural at Ponce De Leon Park and streaked into a tie with Shreveport and Mobile for the league lead.

Playing before the largest opening night assembly since 1957, although 1958 and 1959 Poncey crowds of 7,097 and 6,295 won attendance trophies, each of the until-now unfamiliar Crackers seemed to try to outdo his cohorts in white flannel.

First there was Larry Burright and Jim Williams impressing their new followers with their speed, right at the start, by outlegging singles to open the Crackers' half of the first inning.

Then two batters later, Doug Camilli, fresh from a seven-for-

Larry Burright suffered what may have been a fractured right hand when he slid into second base and stole the bag in the first inning of the Tuesday opener. He finished the game but complained of pain and X-rays are being taken to determine if there was a fracture.

ten bat binges in Chattanooga, made believers of the whooping first nighters by larping a two-run, 380-foot home run over the wire left-center barricade.

But the tumult had not died down before Bill Lajoie, a bench-sitter at Chattanooga, flailed the first pitch ever tossed him while wearing a Cracker suit over the third tier of tin in right for a second successive homer and a 4-0 Cracker lead.

Others waited until later to get

Dodgers Grab Lead, Shutout Frisco 4-0

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Left-hander Johnny Podres, with help from Ed Roebuck, blanked the San Francisco Giants on five hits Tuesday as the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers grabbed the National League lead with a 4-0 victory.

Roebuck came in with one out and the bases loaded in the ninth and got Ed Bressoud to hit into a doubleplay.

LESTER KELLY (L) GETS HONOR FROM DOGWOOD CHAIRMAN SUMMERS Wins Medalist Honor With 69; Awarded Bert Prather Trophy in Druid Hills Tourney

Lester Kelly Fires Eagle on 18, Wins Dogwood Medal With 69

378 Qualify For Tourney

By JACK WILLIAMS

Young Lester Kelly, a forgotten man in a dazzling field of amateurs, laughed at the odds, fired an eagle on the 18th hole and won medalist honors in the 16th Dogwood Invitational Golf Tournament Tuesday.

The former University of Georgia star from Atlanta posted a score of 35-34-69, and established himself as one of the players to beat in the championship proper which starts on the rolling Druid Hills course Wednesday.

A smashing total of 378 players qualified for the tournament, which must rank as one of the biggest and best tournaments anywhere in these United States.

Kelly's 69, posted at dusk on a bright, warm afternoon, enabled him to beat out two other Atlanta players who had finished with 71s. These were Lou McClellan, former Duke University star, and Frank Ziegler, All-America footballer at Georgia Tech in the 40s. Kelly won the Bert Prather trophy, dedicated to the memory of the former Atlanta Constitution golf editor.

Perhaps never before in this colorful event has a player finished a round in such sensational fashion as did Kelly this afternoon.

He had a mediocre score coming to the 18th, and he knew it. "They told me I'd have to have a birdie to win the medal," Kelly said. "So I tried my best to get one."

He did much better. On the par five, 544-yard hole, Kelly's second shot sailed to the fringe of the green, and sat down a 35 feet from the pin.

The 26-year-old sharpshooter took aim at that hole, and putted the ball in for the eagle that separated him from the other contenders.

Many of the top players including five-time winner Gene Dahlbender, Jr., and four-time winner Tommy Barnes, were exempt from qualifying as defending champions.

Barnes did not play a round Tuesday, but Dahlbender shot for fun and posted a 70.

Others were exempt too, players who have won major titles, guys like Chuck Kosci of Royal Oak, Mich., Ted Bishop of Boston, Mass., and Buddy Baker, the Georgia Tech freshman who won the National Junior championship two years ago.

Jack Penrose of Miami, Fla., the defending champion, preferred to shoot for the medal, but he missed it and wound up with a 73, one over par on the 6,673-yard layout.

It took a score of 78 or better to make the championship flight. Most all of the expected made it. These championship battlers will play 18 holes daily Wednesday through Saturday in the medal play event.

Tuesday's play was highlighted by competition for a team trophy, Druid Hills, thanks to Kelly's 69, won this division with a four-man total of 294. Other Druid Hills scores were McClellan 71, Bob Smith 78, and Bill Meehan 76.

The Georgia Tech team finished second at 296. It was comprised of Lefty Ewing 73, Bill Copeland 73, Jimmy Cleveland 74 and Bill Ploeger 76.

Some of the other leading favorites didn't find the Druid Hills course so easy Tuesday. Tim Holland, New York state champion, shot a 73, same score posted by Atlanta Charlie Harrison, who played in the Masters this year.

Teo off time Wednesday is 8 a.m. Pairings for championship flights one through six are listed below. Seniors' play does not start until Friday.

There is a special Druid Hills Invitational Flight for players who shot 83 and over. These players should call the pro shop Wednesday before 2 a.m. indicating their desire to play in this daily nine-hole event, and also to arrange starting times:

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Jim Owens gave up only three hits—one a three-run homer—in pitching the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday night.

Owens, starting his first game of the season, struck out nine and walked two. He fanned Pirate first baseman Dick Stuart three times.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals broke loose for their first victory of the season Tuesday night, beating the Chicago Cubs 5-2 behind Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell's seven-hit, 11-strike-out pitching and Stan Musial's clutch two-run double.

Musial's fifth inning blow broke up a 2-2 duel between Mizell and Cub left-hander Seth Morehead. Mizell needed help in the ninth from Lindy McDaniel, but his performance gave the Redbirds a much-needed lift.

JACKSON JUST LATE, STILL WORKING—BUTTS

Georgia halfback Billy Jackson practiced football Tuesday afternoon and Head Coach Wallace Butts said, "I guess he will be around when we finish work this spring."

Butts refuted a published report that the rising sophomore from Pensacola, Fla., has left school and football practice and headed home.

"He hasn't left here," he continued, "and he has expressed no intention to me of leaving."

Butts said Jackson was late to Tuesday's workout because he was taken to a physician for re-examination of a back injury.

Butts added that being overweight and the injury had slowed the promising athlete's spring progress.

was key figure Ken Rowe, making his Atlanta debut and putting Les Peden's folks on a five-hit dole to pick up the victory chip.

And there was big John Werhas, the rookie upstart out of Southern Cal. His scene stealing came in the sixth when he lashed a mighty triple to right-center behind the second of LaJoie's three safe blows. That sock provided what proved to be the victory run, and Werhas himself ambled home later on an error.

Shortstop Dick Tracewski and first baseman Tim Harkness made their impressions on their new admirers with glove and arm.

After Leo Posada's two-run double behind singling Jay Hankins and Bill Kern broke the run drought for Shreveport in the fourth, Tracewski took the throw in from center fielder Jim Williams and cut down Posada at third. And in the eighth, he prevented an uprising with a sensational leaping stab of Kern's line shot.

Harkness, the 10-day bridegroom, walked twice, batted in a run without benefit of a hit and handled 12 chances—several difficult—masterfully.

Right hander Rowe, the 15-10 Macon workman of last year, slammed the door on the Sports after a streak of wildness cost him two runs in the sixth. He walked Jay Ward and Chet Boak to open the inning. And two outs later, Rac Slider plated them with a ground single through the first-second gap.

Bud Black, veteran right-hander, was the victim of the Cracker show-offs, giving way to a pinch-hitter after being tagged for six of Atlanta's eight hits and all runs in six innings. Bill Carpenter did mopup chores.

Swiftness of the new Crackers was demonstrated by a base theft each by Werhas, Burright and Harkness—the first time in a blue moon an Atlanta team has swiped three in one game.

Buddy Blenker will have the opportunity to do the showing off before his old Georgia Tech buddies Wednesday night (7:45) when he faces the Crackers' veteran Gene Snyder in a southpaw mound battle in the second game.

Roy Harris And Liston Here on TV

Sports Arena Bouts
Open Up Evening

After a financially unsuccessful attempt earlier this month to revive boxing in Atlanta, Jimmy Lewallen, 24-year-old fighter-promoter, will try again Monday night.

With Chris Dundee of Miami he is co-promoting a closed-circuit television showing of the Roy Harris-Sonny Liston fight from Houston.

Liston is the second ranking heavyweight contender and Harris the fifth.

It is said that in September the winner of this bout will meet the winner of the Johansson-Patterson title clash.

The TV showing is scheduled at the Sports Arena for 10 p.m. Before the showing there will be two four-rounders and a six-round semifinal fight.

In the four-rounders Applejack Pruitt of Atlanta meets Danny Brown of Augusta and Donny Fishburn meets Cotton Wallace. In the six-round semifinal Sugar Boy Pruitt meets Justin Mendez of Houston. Both Sugar Boy and Mendez are undefeated as professionals.

The first bout begins at 8:45 and after the semifinal the ring will be shelled and a 10-ft.-by-10-ft. screen put up for the TV showing.

Tickets are two, three and four dollars with advanced sales handled by Reeder & McGahey.

Smyrna Calls For Ballplayers

Smyrna will attempt Wednesday night to form a baseball team to meet other teams of the area in amateur games. Meeting time is 7:30 p.m. at the City Hall.

PC Defeats Tech

Presbyterian defeated the Georgia Tech tennis team 6-3 here Tuesday afternoon and evened the Jackets won and lost chart to seven-seven for the season. It was the fifth match for Tech in six days.

Weekend Series Switched Here From Memphis

Memphis, burned out of its Russwood Park home Sunday, will definitely play in Atlanta Friday, Saturday and Sunday as the visiting team, it was decided Tuesday.

The Crackers will play in Memphis on July 5, 6 and 7 in games originally set for Ponce de Leon Park.

Swap of playing dates was announced by Atlanta General Manager Jerry Waring after conferring with Leo Burson, Chick owner.

Fullmer Pick Over Joey

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP)—Sturdy Gene Fullmer rules a solid favorite over Joey Giardello in the second defense of his world middleweight title, National Boxing Assn. version, Wednesday night in the unusual surroundings of the Montana State College Fieldhouse.

The snowcapped Rockies and the unique campus setting added color to Montana's first championship fight in 37 years.

Fullmer and Giardello already are assured of a fine payday. The champ gets all of the $100,000 paid for network (ABC) television rights.

TRAVEL LOOP NEEDS TO CHANGE DATE

By PAUL ATKINSON
Whither goest the Atlanta Major Traveling League?

That austere bowling circuit, the city's strongest and lone scratch league at the present, is having difficulties. And many wonder if it's not on its last legs.

Basically, here're the troubles—blinds and postponements.

Heretofore, postponements had been the big bugaboo. The current Friday night date apparently isn't ideal, because when tournament time rolls around, the league teams are constantly asking for postponements. There's a considerable backlog right now.

Recently, the "blind" dilemma has cropped up. This is meant as no criticism, but a Friday match was contested with two blinds. This was a bad situation, because it happened to be against league-leading O'Neill's Bowlerama and there was good bit of bickering. Justified or not, about this from the contending clubs.

Certainly more stringent rules need to be set up concerning both. A solution to the blind would be that each club would carry eight men, and an answer to the postponement dilemma would be that after two postponements a season, any more postponements will be forfeited.

There are other minor and irritating items... such as teams not wearing their sponsors' shirts, a direct breach of league rules.

Of course, the league is just coming of age. It's in the "learning stage," but now's the time to correct the ills.

If it doesn't, it may find that it won't be operating next season. For instance, Bill Pace of Briarcliff Lanes has called a meeting at the Brunswick office on Techwood drive Wednesday at 8 p.m. to discuss forming a fast scratch league at his house. And there's a move afoot at other establishments, for scratch leagues.

The Traveling League should not be disbanded. There's room for more than one scratch league.

However, it should definitely consider another evening move in the mid-week category and tighten the rules.

TENPIN ALLEY: Four Atlantans, Gray Hammond, Howard Burton, Baldy Baldassaro and Mac McDermott are in Ft. Campbell, Ky., this week for the Third Army Bowling Tournament. Top 10 averages in the Delta Air Lines No. 2 League are these: W. Ingram, 179; E. Ward, 177; B. Terrell, 167; C. Waller, 166; J. David, 164; R. Thomaston, 163; H. Locklear, 162; K. Wright, 162; J. Davis, 161; J. Bucki and D. Moore, 160. Radio Dept. leads with 175-6 1/2, while Stores is second at 16-8. Sanders Paints and Glover's Pharmacy are 1-2 in Tri-Elites Women's League with 73-47 and 72-48. Lillian Buellerman is ahead in average with 159. Others: N. Stephens, 157; P. McKee, 155; Gloria Fitts, 152; M. Feagin, 151, and Virginia Winkel, 151.

Delta Women's League paced by Revenue with 53 1/2-30 1/2, while IBM is two games out. That top 11 looks like this: Virginia George, 144; Dottie Thompson, 142; Joyce Stephens, 137; Becky Ferguson, 135; Pat Starr, 134; Sonja Fishburne, 131; Donna Buellerman, 127; Barbara Watson, 126; Rhoda Securo, 125; Mary Ann Thompson and Peggy Parker, 124.

SOUTHERN BOWLER MAGAZINE took the American Legion Post 72 title with a final 70-26, while J. B. Webb Co. was second at 59-37. That top 10 in averages: Hank Alexander, 184; F. L. Davis, 174; Steve Davis, 171; Terry Wilch and Dale Polzin, 169; Ronnie Griffin, 166; Rik Van Dyke, 163; Butch Nelson, 161; and Elmo Shup, 158. On the distaff side, top five averages: Dottie Newberry, 154; Dale Cullen, 133; Martha Geisser, 125; Cathie Wilkinson, 118; La Von Poer, 117. The Davis Brothers, Wilch, Nelson and Alexander made up the winning team. F. L. had high scratch game, 258, and Alexander series, 636. Ronnie Cofler's 281 game and Bob Gow's 679 series were best in handicap division, while Geisser had high scratch game of 211 and handicap set with 621 for gals.

Alley Cats pacing Tuesday Morning Ladies League with 33-15, and Eight Balls second with 27-21. Pat Carlson, Doris Roulevy, Rosemary Tyler, Jeanne Stearnes, and Jeanne Futrell are 1-5 in averages with 146, 133, 129, and 122. Nalley Chevrolet came up with a 2,693 scratch series in Triangle Anonymous League, including scratch series of 682, 595, 553 by Pat Crawford, Doug Welch and Gene Honea. Crawford had games of 226, 256, and 200. Delta Men's No. 1 League paced by Carburetor Shop at 72 1/2-43 1/2. Stores Dept. one-half game out and Engine Shop No. 2 only two and one-half games behind. Don Jurgensen, G. Reynolds, J. Baker, M. Gwaltney, B. Hart, J. Emmons and B. Morrison are "Lucky Seven" in averages with 174, 173, 170, 166, 166, 166, and 166. Tri-City Mixed has this top five among women: Jo Summey, 155; Patsy Keanum, 136;

Frankie Gunter, 136; Marion Johnson, 137; and Babbette Morris, 136. On the male side, it's G. McAllister, 172; Jake Smith, 168; B. Merritt and Lloyd Johnson, 165; and Bobby Hart, 164. ATLANTA WOMEN'S BOWLING Assn. logged 126 teams for its tournament at Broadview Bowl-O-Matic April 30-May 1, May 7-8, according to city secretary Jane Nowicki. That fine effort by the Mr. Boh team of Augusta to win the state championship was anchored by Buddy Rhodes' 625 series. Other squad members: John Chisena, 623; Skeet Edwards, 599; Ken Edwards, 543; and Red Crozier, 531. The 1,078 game and 2,921 scratch series were highs. And final congrats to R. J. Glichowski for bringing back Atlanta's lone trophy, the singles with a 726 reading on a 650 scratch series.

DUCKPINNING: Evelyn Traber came up with her fourth 400 set, a 418, Monday to become the city's first woman bowler to do so. The Georgia State Singles tournament for men and women is docketed at Lucky Strike Lanes Sunday afternoon at 4. It'll be over the 10-game route for the men and five for the women. Actually, this is just a tuneup run for 12 teams heading for Richmond, Va., April 28 and the National Duckpin Tournament. Civic Club League holds its banquet Thursday night at the Red Fox Club on Ponce de Leon Ave. at 7.

WOMEN'S GOLF

Mary Crawford to Defend Title In Women's Golf Meet April 25

The 31st annual Georgia Women's State championship April 25-29 at Glen Arven Country Club, Thomasville, which runs concurrently with the famous Rose Festival, is drawing a record entry.

NOTICE TO INVESTORS SINCE 1904
Convertible Bonds are a desirable compromise for many investors in uncertain markets like the present. They can offer very real protection against down-side risks while providing a call on the up-side potentials in equities.
Our current Survey presents some key points to consider in selecting Convertible Bonds and contains a representative list of 15 currently attractive Convertibles. Nine sets of figures are tabulated to help evaluate the investment and conversion worth of each issue.

Old Wheat Hops a Cent

CHICAGO (AP)—Trade in the grain futures market was limited generally to a few contracts with old crop wheat again attracting best support. It was up about a cent.

Other grains were mostly narrowly mixed although corn ranged from weak to firm.

The probability that exports of wheat and flour during March hit a nine-year high for any month continued to be a bullish influence.

Selling Belts Near Cotton

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures closed 5 cents a bale higher to 50 cents lower.

Favorable crop weather brought commission house selling in new crop months and light hedging.

Traders continued to even positions in nearby May, anticipating first notice day for that delivery on Monday. The nearby May delivery was the only month to show a gain for the day. The
